WAS A PROCESSION.

The Boat Race on the Hudson at Poughkeepsie Friday.

BUT CORNELL CAME IN FIRST

Columbia Was Eleven Lengths and One-Half Behind the Winner and Pennsylvania's Boat Was Swamped.

IT WAS A PITIABLE FIZZLE

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 2.—The second Varsity race upon the four-mile course, between the eight-oared crews from Cornell, Columbia and Pennsylvania, came off this evening. Cornell won; Columbia second, about eleven lengths and a half to the rear; Pennsylvania foundered just after passing the two-mile mark. The official time; Cornell, 20 minutes 47 2-5 seconds; Columbia, 21 minutes 20 2-5 seconds.

All of the expectations of those lovers of American sports that by establishing new records Pennsylvania and Columbia would be entitled to demand admission into what promises to be an inter-collegiate rowing combination of three colleges—Yale, Harvard and Cornell—have been rudely shattered. The contest on the Hudson this afternoon, which had been heralded as promising a close and exciting finish, and which each college coach declared would be a record breaking contest, turned out to be the merest sort of a procession and an apology for a race.

Itstr ue that the water conditions were not favorable to fast time, and that men like Dr. Walter Peet and other boating experts alleged that it was not a proper time to start a race, but it is also true that after having started, the chances were certainly equal for each crew. There was really no race to describe, at least not after the second mile. During the first three-quarters of a mile the contest was rather pretty. Pennsylvania took the water first, Columbia following and Cornell hanging to the rear. At the quarter of a mile Pennsylvania had a lead of one-half a length over Columbia and Columbia one-half a length over Cornell. Pennsylvania was, however, splashing badly. At the three-quarters of a mile Pennsylvania had three-quarters of a length still over Cornell, who had pulled on beyond Columbia for about half a length. It was here that trouble seemed to begin in the Pennsylvania boat. They had caught considerable wash from a passing steamer. By the time the crews had reached the mile and a quarter the Pennsylvania boat was lumbering along, filled almost to the gunwales, but the men continued bravely pulling, although falling far behind Columbia, who, in rowing in shore to avoid the swells, had lost considerable distance to Cornell. From a mile and a half down the almost ludicrous procession began. Cornell finished an easy winner.

A Murderer Located.

About January 1st last there was a christening near Clarence, in Snow Shoe township, of a Hungarian child. A Hungarian by the name of Andrew Flaxo induced a countryman of his, Mr. John Garbor, to take a hunt with him. After the two had gone a short distance Flaxo, he being in the lead, turned around and shot Garbor in the neck, killing him instantly. The murderer threw the gun down by the side of his victim and fled, and was not heard of until recently, when he was located in Hungary.

The murdered man belonged to a secret benevolent society, with headquarters in Europe and branches in this country, one being at Clarence. It was through these societies that the murderer has been located, and all that is needed to bring Flaxo to justice is for the County Commissioners to send a person to Hungary and have him extradited.

That was the second murder committed in that neighborhood within a year and both criminals are at large. It is thought by many that some efforts should be made to bring the guilty to punishment.

Some two weeks after Flaxo's disappearance his wife and family arrived from Europe and have remained in Snow Shoe ever since. The beneficial society paid all the funeral expenses of the murdered man and gave his wife $500. Now that the society has hunted down and located the murderer, the county officials will be doing their duty in bringing the criminal to justice and thereby deterring others from committing crime.—Williamsport Gri t.

A BIG DAY AT HECLA.

Successful Picnic Held by the Undine Fire Company.

The big picnic held at Hecla Park, Saturday, July 3rd, by the Undine fire company was a very successful affair and everything passed off smoothly and to the credit of the management. The committee in charge were; William P. Flack, Frank Waltz and Al. S. Garman. It is estimated that over 8,000 people were present. They came from all over Centre county, Lock Haven and Williamsport were also well represented.

The amusements of the day consisted of bicycle races, base ball games, dancing and a fine display of fire-works in the evening.

The races were largely attended and resulted as follows:

One mile novice—Won by Bruce Barnhart, of Bellefonte, time 3:21; second, Bosner, of Bellefonte; third, Parsons, of Lock Haven.

One mile open—Won by John Teats, of Bellefonte, time 3.10; Harry Weaver, second, Jesse Underwood, third.

Boys race one mile open—Won by Harry Weaver, of Bellefonte, time 2:49, Teats second and Underwood third.

A game of base ball was played at 1 o'clock between Mackeyville and Millheim which resulted in a score of 16 to 1 in favor of the former.

Another game was played at 3 o'clock between the Demorests and South Williamsport which resulted in favor of the latter by a score of 10 to 9.

A band concert was given at 7:00 p. m., which was highly enjoyed. The following bands were present: Coleville-Milesburg Consolidated, Lock Haven, Undine and Pleasant Gap.

Runaway Team.

On Monday, while Mr. Philip Beezer and his brother were unloading a wagon load of ice at Mr. Philip Beezer's large meat market, on Allegheny street, some person set fire to a pack of fire crackers near the horses' heels. Of course they did not like it very well and thought they would move. They started on a trot out the street, and in turning the wagon Philip Beezer was thrown out under the wheels. He might have been very seriously hurt, but fortunately escaped with some cuts and bruises, and to-day feels a little stiff.

The first place the horses struck in their flight was the First National Bank steps; this frightened them a great deal more and started them at a break-neck speed, the wagon striking a solid oak post in front of Montgomery's store, which laid it in the middle of the street. The next place they called was at the stepping stone in front of Mr. A. Allison's home, and in striking it their speed was checked and they were brought to a halt in front of Mr. Fearon Mann's home.

Song Service at the Evangelical Church.

The song service held in the Evangelical church, Sunday evening July 4th, led by the young men of the Y. M. C. A. was quite interesting, and enjoyed immensely by all present. The meeting consisted of a short talk, relating to the effect that a song sometimes has upon the souls of the unconverted, delivered by Mr. J. W. Gephart.

Two very pretty solos were rendered by Mr. J. Malcom Laurie just prior to Mr. Gepharts talk, and another immediately after by M. B. Derr. The orchestra was present and furnished the music for the congregational singing. Their services were highly appreciated. Rev. Goodling, of that church, suggests that more such meetings be held, during the summer evenings as it is a splendid method to arouse interest among the members, in spite of the intense heat which prevails at this time of the year.

MAKING ANOTHER EFFORT.

ONE WITNESS GIVES TESTIMONY

Mrs. Fillmore, a Resident of Oakland, Cal., Files a Deposition in Which She Testifies to Certain Facts, Etc.

RATHER AN UNWILLING WITNESS

NEW YORK, July 6.—The efforts of Mrs. Sarah Ann Angell, a resident of Michigan, to establish her claim as the widow of the late Jay Gould in a suit against Edwin and Helen Gould, to recover her dower in the premises of No. 1 East Forty-seventh street and 579 Fifth avenue, were recalled to-day in the supreme court, when the depositions of Mrs. Susan J. Fillmore, a witness in behalf of the claimant, was filed.

Mrs. Fillmore is a resident of Oakland, Cal. In her deposition she testifies that she moved from Homer, N. Y., to Scranton, Pa., in June, 1855. Some time in 1856 or 1857 she and her husband boarded the caboose of either a coal or a freight train on their way from Slateford to Scranton, Pa., and her husband introduced her to Mr. Gould, who was riding in the caboose. Her husband knew Mr. Gould, who was on his way to Gouldsboro, a place sixteen miles from Scranton named after Mr. Gould.

Mrs. Fillmore could not say whether or not Mr. Gould was married at that time. He asked her how many children she had and she replied two. Then he spoke of his domestic relations. He said he thought witness was very young to have two children, but witness told him she was 22 years old and then he said he had a wife and child, but he did not say whether it was a boy or girl. At that time he lived in Gouldsboro and was in the tanning business. He said his wife lived in either the northern or western part of New York state. At that time he appeared to be a smart industrious young man, very boyish looking and did not appear to be over 18 or 19 years old. She had received three or four letters from Mrs. Angell's attorney about this matter, but no offers of money. She had only been offered money by John Pierce, who told her that if she testified to the truth she would get something; she could not say how much she was to get; it was a great sum. She did not want to be brought into this and would not until she got the subpœna from Mr. Kellogg. Even then she was inclined to ignore it until her husband told her she would have to testify.

AMERICAN FREEDOM.

THE STORY OF OUR VICTORY OVER ENGLAND.

She was Invincible in War and Flushed with Conquests when the Colonies Defied Her Authority, and Declared Independence—Another Such Revolution Will Never Be Known in History.

The Fourth of July 1897 witnesses Cuba striving for independence, Crete seeking autonomy and Ireland chafing under British yoke yet yearning to be free. The sympathies of all loyal Americans intuitively go out to these struggling provinces, who, were they permitted to follow their own inclinations, would adopt a form of self-government patterned after that of our own glorious Republic, shaking off as did we over a century ago the monarchial fetters that are so prejudical to the advancement of society and obnoxious to the freedom-loving individual.

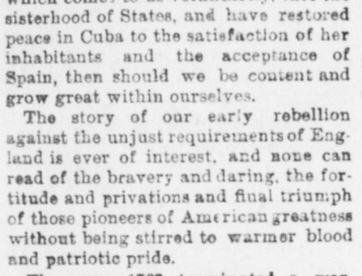
When we shall have accepted Hawaii which comes to us voluntarily, into the sisterhood of States, and have restored peace in Cuba to the satisfaction of her inhabitants and the acceptance of Spain, then should we be content and grow great within ourselves.

The story of our early rebellion against the unjust requirements of England is ever of interest, and none can read of the bravery and daring, the fortitude and privations and final triumph of those pioneers of American greatness without being stirred to warmer blood and patriotic pride.

The year 1763 terminated a war, which was both advantageous and glorious to Great Britain. The treaty of Paris, besides ceding to her several island in the West Indies and establishing her power in the East, gave her the sovereignity of the vast continent of America, from Florida to the Arctic Seas.

The expenses of the previous war had, however, been immense. In order to meet them and liquidate to some degree the national debt, resolutions were adopted by the ministry to tax the American colonies on certain articles of importation. Their ability to pay these taxes was not doubted; and it was considered proper that those who enjoyed so many advantages should contribute their portion towards bearing the public burdens,

The colonists, however, were fully persuaded that whatever might be the necessities of the mother country, yet, exclusive of the restrictions laid during late years on their commerce, the sole enjoyment of their trade was a tax in itself more in proportion than all that were levied on the people of Great Britain. The right of taxing them without their being represented in the British Parliament, they denied as resolutely as their ancestors did the payment of ship money to Charles I.



THE MINUTE MEN.

Under orders of the Provincial Congress the inhabitants of the Colonies were enlisted as Minute Men, "to be in readiness at a minute's warning to appear in arms."

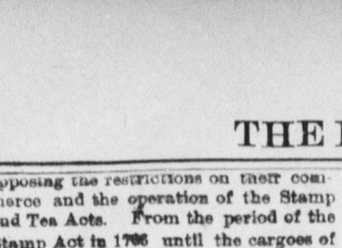
The ministry expressed astonishment at hearing such language from the colonists, charging them with ingratitude and disloyalty, and with being solicitous only to profit by the generosity of the mother country. The Americans repelled these unfounded charges with indignation. They gloried in calling Britain their mother country; they had never disgraced the title; they had ever obeyed her just and lawful commands; and they submitted, for her benefit, to heavy burdens and commercial restrictions.

In 1764 a bill was framed laying heavy duties (payable into the British treasury in specie) on all articles imported into the colonies from the French and other islands in the West Indies. This was followed by an act restraining the currency of paper money, in 1765, to complete the link so unjustly begun, was passed Greville's famous Stamp Act, the prelude to the most tremendous and destructive quarrel that had befallen Britain for several ages. It was styled "the folly of England and ruin of America."

Although some acts favorable to the commerce of the colonies were passed, the people became suspicious and placed no reliance on the good will of the British Government. They especially mistrusted the king. Resolutions were adopted to make no further importations from Great Britain; and so far was the encouragement of domestic manufactures persevered in that the use of all elegancies was laid aside and the eating of lamb suspended in order to encourage the raising of wool.

Ministers were chagrined and astonished to find that a great portion of the British nation espoused the cause of America. But, disregarding all opposition to Parliament, all remonstrances of the colonists as well as petitions from the United Kingdom the Government madly proceeded in the prosecution of its impracticable schemes. At this period the fame and grandeur of Great Britain were so great that no one imagined that the colonies would presume to dispute any measure dictated by the ministry. The splendid triumphs of the British nation in all parts of the world had excited the jealousy of Europe and the idea of the colonists making a trial of prowess with the armies and fleets which had defeated the combined strength of France and Spain was considered presumptuous and visionary. It was, therefore, matter of astonishment to learn the extraordinary and resolute conduct of the Americans in opposing the restrictions on their commerce and the operation of the Stamp and Tea Acts. From the period of the Stamp Act in 1766 until the cargoes of the tea-ships were thrown overboard in December, 1773, included a period of seven years of solemn resistance.

The master of a packet conveying passengers to Providence (June 9), which was fired at and chased by the Gaspee for neglecting to pay the requisite tribute of respect, took advantage of the state of the tide (it being almost high water) to stand in so closely to the shore that the Gaspee in the pursuit might be exposed to run aground. The artifice succeeded; the Gaspee presently stuck fast and the packet proceeded in triumph to Providence where a strong sensation was excited by the tidings of the occurrence, and a project was hastily formed to improve the blow and destroy the obnoxious vessel. Brown, an eminent merchant, and Whipple, a shipmaster, took the lead in this bold adventure and easily collected a sufficient band of resolute and armed men with whom they embarked in whaleboats to attack the British



CAPTURE OF MAJOR ANDRE.

—Incidents of American History 1833.

Major Andre, a British officer, connived with Benedict Arnold, U. S. Commander at West Point, for the transfer of that garrison. After a conference with Arnold he was captured, convicted as a spy and shot. Arnold escaped to the British lines and received the price for his treason—a generalship in the King's Army.

hip-of-war. At 2 o'clock the next morning (June 10) they boarded the Gaspee so suddenly and in such numbers that her crew were instantly overpowered, without hurt to any one except her commanding officer, who was wounded. The captors having despatched a part of their number to convey him, together with his private effects and his crew, ashore set fire to the Gaspee and destroyed her with all her stores.

The issue of this daring act of war against the naval force of the king was as remarkable as the enterprise itself. The British Government offered a reward of £500, together with a pardon if claimed by an accomplice, for the discovery and apprehension of any person concerned in the treasonable attack upon the Gaspee; and a commission under the great seal of England appointed Wanton, the Governor of Rhode Island; Peter Oliver, the new Chief-Justice of Massachusetts; Auchmuty, the Judge-Admiral of America, and certain other persons, to preside upon the trial of the offenders.

But no trial took place. Nobody came forward to claim the proffered reward; some persons who were apprehended in the hope that they might be induced by threats and terror to become witnesses were enabled by popular assistance to escape before any information could be extracted from them, and in the commencement of the following year the commissioners reported to the British ministry their inability, notwithstanding the most diligent inquisition, to procure evidence or information against a single individual.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

The Men Who Wrote It and Their Patriotic Disinterestedness

In May 1776, the colonies on the proposition of Mr. Adams were invited by the General Congress to establish their several State Governments. On the 7th of June the resolution of independence was moved by Richard Henry Lee. On the 11th a committee of five was chosen to announce this resolution to the world, and Thomas Jefferson and John Adams stood at the head of this committee. From their designation by ballot to this most honorable duty their elevated standing in the Congress might alone be inferred. In their amicable contention and deference each to the other of the great trust of composing the all-important document, we witness their patriotic disinterestedness and their mutual respect. This trust devolved on Jefferson and with it rests on him the imperishable renown of having penned the Declaration of Independence of America. To have been the instrument of expressing in one brief decisive act the concentrated will and resoluion of a whole family of States; of unfolding in one all-important manifesto the causes, the motives, the justification of the great movement in human affairs which was then taking place; to have been permitted to give the impress and peculiarity of his own mind to a charter of public right, elevated to an importance in the estimation of men beyond everything human ever borne on parchment or expressed in the visible signs of thought, this is the glory of Thomas Jefferson.

PATRICK HENRY'S ELOQUENCE.

The Burning and Prophetic Words He Uttered to the Virginia Assembly.

The early example of Massachusetts in preparing for defence was followed by the other provinces, and war-like counsels were boldly broached in the provincial assemblies and congresses. When some members of the Virginia assembly urged the postponement of these preparations, reminding their colleagues of the power of Britain and the comparative weakness of America, and insisting that it would be time enough to fly to arms when every well-founded hope of peace had entirely vanished—Patrick Henry, with vehement and victorious eloquence, contended that that time had already come. "It is natural," said he, "to man to indulge in the illusion of hope. We are prone to shut our eyes against a painful truth and listen to the song of that enchantress till she transforms us into beasts. There is no longer any room for hope. We must fight. I repeat it, sir, we must fight. An appeal to arms and to the God of Hosts is all that is left us. They tell us that we are weak and unable to cope with so formidable an adversary. But when shall we be stronger? Will it be when our supineness shall have enabled our enemies to bind us hand and foot? Sir, we are not weak if we make use of those means which the God of nature has placed in our power. Three millions of people armed in the holy cause of liberty and in such a country as ours are invincible by any force which our enemy can send against us. Nor shall we fight our battles alone. That God who presides over the destinies of nations will rise up friends to aid us. The battle is not to the strong alone but to the vigilant, the active, the brave. Besides, we have no longer a choice. If we were base enough to desire it, it is now too late to retire from the contest. There is no retreat but in submission and slavery. Our chains are forged, their clanking may be heard on the plains of Boston. The war is inevitable, and let it come! Gentlemen may cry 'Peace! Peace!'—but there is no peace. The war is actually begun. The next gale that sweeps from the north will bring to our ears the clash of resounding arms." These last words proved prophetic.

Points for a Parent.

To give a successful display of fireworks the amateur or paterfamilias should eschew rameness and not get rattled. The constant firing of rocket after rocket of the same kind is monotonous and excessively tiresome.

After selecting your material it is just as well to look over pieces during the daylight, setting them up ready for firing before dark. You might get "rattled" at night and flare up the whole outfit with a single stray spark. See that your wheels run freely on their nails. Bury your mines and batteries half way in the ground, so that it will be impossible for them to turn over and bombard your friends, and always keep your surplus rockets a good distance away from the scene of operations, never putting them in the ground, but placing them against a wall or fence, so that there is no danger of their going off prematurely.

Panic in a School.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., July 2.—The Bayley Grammar School, of this city, held its commencement exercises last evening, and the hall of the school was well filled. In the midst of the exercises some one in the street yelled "fire," and in a moment the big audience made a rush for the door. Some few men who kept their wits about them tried to persuade the frightened people that there was no fire, but could not stop the mad rush.

Women and children fell over one another, and to make matters worse some one rang the alarm for the fire department, and they hurriedly responded.

In the scramble one woman was knocked down, but fortunately escaped with slight bruises. When all were safely outside the building it was ascertained that some malicious person had given a false alarm.

Out Camping.

The camping season is at hand and many of our young people are taking advantage of this fact. Thursday a party of eight started down Bald Eagle, their destination being three miles below Howard, where they expect to put in a few days hunting and fishing. The party was made up of the following young men: Will Dorworth, Howard Curtin, Frank Curtin, Tommy Hamilton, Bert Blair, Wallace Reeder, Samuel McClure and Robert Stuart, as chief cook and bottle washer.

Bannocks are Ghost-Dancing.

BOISE, Idaho, June 30.—Governor Stunenberg is advised that 300 Indians, mostly Bannocks, from the Lemhi agency and some from the Nevada, are ghost-dancing in the Cumas prairie near Hailey, Idaho. The settlers are greatly alarmed over their action, and have appealed to have them removed. The Governor immediately sent telegrams to Senators Shoup and Heitfeld and to the Secretaries of War and Interior, asking that the Indians be immediately recalled to the reservation.

Both Senators took the matter up and it was presented at the cabinet meeting. These Indians are the ones who figured in the Jackson Hole affair some time ago, and had several skirmishes with the soldiers. A commission is now negotiating with them for a cession of a part of their reservation to the United States.

Secretary Alger sent a telegram to Brigadier General Coppinger at Omaha, instructing him to send one or more officers to report upon the state of affairs. While there are no troops in the immediate vicinity of Fort Hall reservation and those nearest, at Fort Douglass, outside of Salt Lake City, are not cavalry and are so unsuited for quick work, the department has ample force at other posts to meet any emergency that may arise.

Accident to Robert Moyer.

Mr. Robert Moyer, the baggage master on the Lewisburg train met with quite a serious accident last Thursday which might have cost him his life. He had a baby carriage to put off at Axe Mann and as there was no one there to receive it, it was neccessay for him to get off the car to lift it out. Before the train came to the station, he went out on the platform and down the steps, so as to be ready to jump off, as soon as it stopped. Fearing that the baby carriage might fall out and not realizing how near he was to the depot, he glanced back along the car, when his head struck the depot throwing him to the ground. His nose was cut and he sustained other injuries about the head and shoulders. Mr. Moyer was brought to Bellefonte and taken to his home on Thomas street, where his wounds were properly attended to. He is now resting easily and while his injuries are not serious, yet, they are very painful. It was certainly a narrow escape from death.

A Noonday Fire.

Quite an excitement was raised about a quarter of twelve Thursday when the fire alarm was sounded and a huge cloud of smoke was seen ascending from the direction of Ed. Rhoads' coal yard. But it proved to be a false alarm and word was sent to the fire companies not to turnout. Some men were mixing tar near Rhoads' corn-crib when the tar accidentally caught fire and the smoke and flames which arose from it gave the impression to those at a distance that a big conflagration was in progress; hence the cause of the fire alarm being sounded. The fire was soon put out without any serious damage.

Grapes With Horehound Cures Coughs.

Old Aunt Rachael, an old and successful nurse, 90 years old, 70 years experience as a nurse and much sought after by hundreds of families, has for years made a Cordial most effective for coughs and colds by the use of Grapes with Elecampane Root and the Herb Horehound. Public speakers and singers use it. It is performing wonders. Sold by druggists.

Death of Actor Hoey.

NEW YORK, June 30.—William F. Hoey, the eccentric character comedian and vocalist, died yesterday at the home of his mother-in-law, aged 42. Hoey had been suffering from paresis of the brain for three months past, but the malady only assumed an accute form three weeks ago, when, upon the advice of a specialist, arrangements were made to place the actor in a sanitarium.

HE WAS TIRED OF LIFE

Wm. H. Yearick, of Miles Township, Attempts Suicide.

BY THE CHLOROFORM ROUTE

DISCOVERED BY THE HOTEL PORTER

On Wednesday morning, June 30, the little town of Millheim was startled by the report of an attempted suicide at the Hotel Musser. Investigation proved that the rumor was not founded on fiction, but was too true.

The unfortunate man who thus attempted to end his life was William H. Yearick, of Miles township, a man about 45 years old, who had been boarding at the Musser House for several weeks past.

On retiring Tuesday night he left a call with Landlord Musser for 8:00 o'clock, but when the porter went to call him in the morning he was horrified to find him apparently dead. The porter ran down stairs and reported in the office. A man named Walter Albright went up and found Yearick black in the face and with a sponge, saturated with chloroform, tied over his mouth.

Medical attendance was at once summoned; Drs. Mohn and Musser responding to the call, and after working with their patient for over an hour finally succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. Both physicians declare that Yearick had a very narrow escape from death and had they been but a few minutes later in discovering him nothing could have saved his life.

Yearick gave no reason for his rash act, except that he was tired of living and wanted to die. He is a married man, but has not been living with his wife for some time past.

John A. Rupp Assigns.

John A. Rupp, a prominent flour and grain merchant of Oak Hall, was forced to make an assignment Wednesday afternoon in favor of his creditors. W. Galor Morrison, of Bellefonte, was appointed assignee, and William Allison, of Oak Hall, and L. A. Schaeffer, of this place, appraisers.

Mr. Rupp served six years as register of Centre county and was supposed to be very well off. He owned besides the large flouring mill, three dwelling houses at Oak Hall. The hard times of the past three years are thought to be the cause of his failure. His liabilities are placed at $12,000.

—Mr. P. A. King, of this place, received Thursday a large Sea Gull, from Saratoga Springs, N. Y., to be mounted. It is not generally known, but Mr. King is quite a successful taxidermist, and does a great deal of work in that line.

—The Manchester Fire Insurance Co. have placed their Company in Mr. Grant Hoover's office. This is one of the oldest and most reliable companies, and have paid a number of fire losses in Bellefonte and Centre Co. This company Mr. Hoover very ably represents.

Pain to Recall General Weyler.

LONDON, June 29.—The Pall Mall Gazette this afternoon prints the following dispatch from its correspondent at Madrid:

Public attention is engrossed by the appointment of General Stewart L. Woodford as United States minister to Spain. While the government continues to repudiate the intention of recalling General Weyler, I am in a position to reiterate that his recall will be an accomplished fact at no distant date. I learn that in all probability Generals Blanco and Macias will proceed to the island and divide the supreme command, and I have good reason to believe that, coincident with the arrival here of General Woodford, Marshal Martinez Campos will proceed upon a separate mission to Cuba.

In accordance with the wishes of President McKinley, Martinez Campos should be the executor of any arrangements possibly reached between Spain and the United States. Indications do not point to any arrangements being reached with the United States, and intimate friends of Senor Canovas del Castillo, the Spanish premier, declare the premier will strenously oppose autonomy. Castelar, the liberal leader, is opposed to any thing of the kind. They both consider that such a consession would render it very difficult to maintain Spanish sovereignty.

The report that the United States will insist upon autonomy and the withdrawal of the Spanish troops, and that otherwise it will intervene by force, is necessary, does not make for a peaceful solution, and the position is regarded throughout Spain with considerable anxiety.

State Teachers Enjoy Themselves.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., July 1.—The State Teachers' association ended its forty-third convention here this afternoon by a picnic and meeting at Cascade Park. The morning was devoted principally to business and listening to short addresses. The officers nominated by the association yesterday and given in these dispatches last night were all elected without a dissenting vote.

Before adjournment this afternoon resolutions were adopted commending Governor Hastings for his hearty cooperation in advancing the cause of education; protesting against the reduction of the annual public school appropriation; endorsing the reappointment of Dr. Schaffer as superintendent of public instruction and urging upon all school directors the propriety and necessity of raising by local taxation at least as much money for school purposes in their respective districts as they receive from the annual state appropriation.

Five Indians Dead.

BRAINERD, July 1.—Five Indians, including Chief Wee Sugm, are dead at Malone's Point, on Mille Lacs Lake, and several others are expected to die, as the result of drinking pain killer, hair oil and other preparations containing alcohol. The Indian payment has been going on there and the Indians filled themselves with this stuff, which was bought from Malone's trading post. Indian riders are scouring every part of the reservation to bring the band together at this point, and serious trouble may result, as the redskins think Malone is to blame for the deaths, and if whisky can be gotten there is no telling what will happen. Parties just home from the Point say the excitement runs high.

Convent Girls Attempt to Escape.

CINCINNATI, July 1.—Maggie Gaffey, of Covington, aged 15, and Millie Hober, of Cincinnati, aged 16, made a daring escape from the convent of the Good Shepherd, in this city, after midnight. They dropped 20 feet from a fourth-stary window to a roof and then scaled the convent walls. Millie Hober sprained her ankles, and her companion would not desert her, so the police took charge of them. The girls tell stories of starvation, hard work and cruel treatment, and threaten suicide if they are returned. The police will investigate.

WORK OF DYNAMITERS

ALL THIS OCCURRED AT SCRANTON

MANY HOUSES WERE DESTROYED

SCRANTON, June 29.—A dynamite explosion early this morning in South Scranton blew up the business block of Leon Olchofski, a double dwelling block owned by him and a detached house owned by Michael O'Hara. The business block, a two story building, was torn to pieces. Twenty other houses had all the window blown out and plaster torn from the walls. The shock was felt all over the city.

The cause of the explosion is unknown, but Olchofski alleged that it was the work of enimies he made during political and church disputes in that section, he being one of the principles in the row which led to a split in the Polish congregation. Olchofski was seriously injured in saving his wife and his recovery is doubtful.

Following the explosion the wrecked building took fire, but the firemen kept the flames from spreading. The other properties seriously damaged were the brick business block and dwelling of Charles Johnson, dwellings of William Grambe, Charles Kiefer, John Kline, Michael Joyce, Dr. J. J. Walsh, James Welsh, Adam Eflinger, Bridget Lavell, Joseph Dedims, Philip Klein Carl Scheurman and George Gardner, and B. Huse's blacksmith shop.

In some of the houses the sleeping people were covered with falling plaster. The infant child of Michael Joyce was dangerously injured and a little son of John Klein almost suffocated. The total loss will reach $25,000.

Chiefs Robling and Hickey, of the police and fire departments, respectively, and corps of assistants, worked with a great eagerness to-day in an effort to fix the responcibility for the explosion. They had not ordered any arrests up to late hour to-night It is generally believed that Leon Olchofski, owner of the main building, will be arrested soon. He is now closely watched. A bureau that was removed during the fire from his double dwelling at the rear of the store, was found saturated with kerosene in all its three big drawers He had his clothes on when the explosion occured and after rushing from the house, fell senseless in the street. His apparel was saturated with kerosene. The wreckage in the streets was partially removed to day and no bodies were found. Experts say that about 100 pounds of dynamite or a proportionate amount of some equally powerful agent must have been used.

Olchofski was arrested to-night for arson on alderman's warrant and committed to the Central police station to await a continued hearing to-morrow.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounce it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

His Yacht Was a Failure.

NEW YORK, June 29.—Franklin Bossford, who was a marine designer and yachting editor of Outing, committed suicide yesterday [illegible] the yacht Larada, at Jersey City He was 43 years old. It is thought that disappointment that the Larada, which he had built, expecting to produce the fastest steam yacht afloat, had proved a failure, was the cause of his suicide. Bossford left a letter to a friend, in which he said: "I am thoroughly discouraged about my boat. I am practically without money to finish it, and I find I can go no further. Structurally, it is a success, but the incompetence and opposition of others has necessitated much expense, which I am no longer able to stand."

Mr. Bossford had predicted that the Laurada would make a revolution in the building of steamships. His experiments with a miniature steam yacht gave him expectations which the Laurada failed to fulfill. Mr. Bossford also made a nondescript craft propelled by foot power, on pedals like a bicycle. It was a failure. He had painted pictures of the ships of the White Squadron, and had a reputation as a portrait painter.

It is said that men whom Bossford had induced to take a financial interest in the Laurada and in his patent, procured a few months ago, on a contrivance for the marine engines, were convinced that his idea was not good, and refused to invest any more money.

Fell Nine Stories to Death

ATLANTA, Ga., June 28.—A derrick on the roof of a new building fell at 1 o'clock this afternoon, knocking three workmen from a scaffolding on the ninth story. Two of them, Palmetto Ayres and Charles Kargill, both colored, were dashed to instant death on the ground, 125 feet below, and the third, W. M. Brown, white, was saved in a most miraculous way. He was cut about the head and arms.

The men were standing on a platform which skirts the edge of the ninth floor when the derricks fell. The part of the scaffolding upon which they stood was swept away and the men were thrown into space. Brown, by the wildest freak of luck, grasped one of the derrick ropes as he shot through the air. As the boom of the hoisting engine fell the ropes on the tackle were set in motion, one going up and the other down. It was Brown's good fortune to catch the rope being drawn upward and he was hauled safely to the roof.

To another boom of the derrick projecting out on the other side of the building was attached a car in which four men were standing. This boom likewise fell, but was held up by the roof. The car was dashed over the side of the building and swung there in safety. The men were shoved through a window, none of them being injured.

Mr. Gammon, superintendent of derricks, believes that the killing of the two men was no accident. It was, in his opinion, a plot on the part of some one at work on this building that the derrick should fall.

Arnold for Governor.

CLEARFIELD, Pa., June 29.—The Republican county convention today nominated the following ticket: For sheriff, D. D. Gingery, Bradford; district attorney, A. H. Woodward, Clearfield; jury commissioner, J. E. Phillips, Decatur; coroner, Dr. J. Currier, Grampian.

Resolutions were adopted reaffirming allegiance to the platform of 1896; indorsing President McKinley's administration and the tariff bill, and Congressman William C. Arnold, of DuBois, for Governor. County Chairman W. I. Shaw, of Houtzdale, was unanimously re-elected.

Attempted Suicide.

MILFORD, Pa., June 18.—Paul Herman Schulz, who on June 13 was found guilty of murder in the first degree for killing his wife, attempted to commit suicide this morning by strangulation. Schulz tore a strip from a bed quilt and tied it tightly around his neck. He was discovered by Night Watchman Terwilliger before life was extinct. Dr. Wenner was quickly summoned, and after working with Schulz for half an hour finally revived him.

Schulz had written a farewell letter in which he denied having murdered his wife.

He still refuses food and says that he will starve himself to death before the day of execution.

—Tyrone seems to be drinking a good bit of hot whiskey of late, as they were calling for more ice. Thursday it was visited again by another severe hail storm, although nodamage was done to that section of the country, but around through Centre Co. the wheat crop suffered very much from the wind and rain.

A FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT

HIS NECK WAS BROKEN

HIS DEATH WAS INSTANTANEOUS

One of the most frightful accidents that has occurred in Centre county for sometime happened on the farm of John Seibert, four miles west of Bellefonte, Thursday evening, about 5:00 o'clock, when Charles Dale, the little 5-year-old son of Samuel Dale, of Warriorsmark, was instantly killed.

The lad was a grandson of Mr. Seibert and, with his mother, was visiting at the country place of the Seiberts, where, in the afternoon of this fatal day, the farm hands were engaged in hauling in hay, and had just unloaded a wagon in the barn and started to go back to the field. The team was standing near the barn and the child was swinging on the stay-chains, when the horses started and he was thrown under the wheels.

No sound came from the little fellow's lips, but John Seibert just came out of the house at the instant the rear wheels were passing over the lad's neck. He caught up the lifeless form of his little grandson, but it was too late, the heavy front wheels had killed him. His neck was broken.

The child was carried into the house and word was sent at once to Bellefonte for a physician, but it was without avail. His little spirit had taken it's flight when the physician arrived.

The parents of the unfortunate child are almost crazed with grief over their loss, and they certainly have the sincere sympathy of the public in this their hour of direst affliction.

The funeral took place on Friday at 3:00 o'clock p. m., from the Seibert home. Interment in the Buffalo Run cemetery. Rev. D. L. Jones, pastor of Buffalo Run Presbyterian church, conducted the services.

Heroic Action of a Young Lady.

At Williamsport Tuesday the youngest daughter of Rev. G. W. Stevens, while shooting fire crackers with her brother, picked up a squib after it had exploded and began blowing it. The few remaining sparks ignited and were scattered over the light material in the child's dress, which at once burst out in flames. Miss Florence Duffy was near by, and running to the child she wrapped her own dress and skirts about her and succeeded in extinguishing the flames. The child was thus saved a frightful burning. As it was, the lower portion of her body and her hands, arms and face were somewhat scorched. Mrs. Duffy's hands and arms were also burned.

Anti-Quay People Win in Potter.

COUDERSPORT, Pa., June [illegible] The Republican county convention met here to day and nominated Thomas A. Morrison for assistant law judge, S. K. Stevens for associate judge; T M. Sinsabaugh for jury commissioner, and W. D. Brightman and D. T. Hauber for state delegates.

The anti-Quay people were successful in nominating their entire ticket. In the fight for district delegates ex-Congressman Leonard, the Quay leader, lost his own ward.

Baby's Smooth Fair Skin

Is Due to Hood's Sarsaparilla—It Cured Him of Dreadful Scrofulous Sores—Now In Good Health.

"At the age of two months, my baby began to have sores break out on his right cheek. We used all the local external applications that we could think or hear of, to no avail. The sores spread all over one side of his face. We consulted a physician and tried his medicine, and in a week the sore was gone. But to my surprise in two weeks more another scrofulous looking sore made its appearance on his arm. It grew worse and worse, and when he was three months old, I began giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla. I also took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before the first bottle was finished, the sores were well and have never returned. He is now four years old, but he has never had any more of those scrofulous sores." MRS. S. S. WRORENT, Farmington, Delaware.

Began to Talk When a Week Old.

Few will believe it possible for a 3-months-old child to talk. However, such is the case, and anyone can verify the truthfulness of this statement with very little trouble. The parents of the child are Richard and Frankie Cleveland, colored, living at 17 Short street, and the child has been talking since it was 1 week old. Hundreds have visited the little wonder and have left the house completely mystified at what they have seen and heard.

The child is a girl and differs only from other babies in that it can talk as plainly and be understood as distinctly as a grown person. The voice, of course, is naturally weak, but has none of the baby prattle about it. In addition to the child's talking propensities it seems to be possessed of superior intelligence and gives voice to utterances most astounding, coming as they do from one so young.

The Rev. G. W. Martin, a colored preacher who has a church in the vicinity and a majority of his flock called at the house to convince themselves of the truth of the rumors which have been circulated concerning the child. The little one seemed to enjoy the presence of the crowd for a while, but soon tiring, remarked to its mother in a voice audible to all present: "I wish all these folks would go home, as I am tired." The callers took the hint and soon departed.—Nashville Banner.

What Gages Desires to Do.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—It is learned that Secretary Gage has written a letter to Senator Allison, suggesting the advisability of putting a tax of one cent a pound on all refined sugar made from stock imported prior to the passage of the pending tariff bill. It is the opinion of the customs officials of the treasury that duty would increase the goverment revenues by several million dollars and that the hardship would fall on those best able to bear. what action the senate committee will take on the suggestion is not known.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, July 5, 1897.

Senator Allison and his associates worked hard to get the tariff bill through the Senate last week, but fate, in the shape of several undisposed of amendments, could not be overcome and the bill is still before the Senate, and the Senators are working when most other people are celebrating Independence Day in some more pleasant manner. But they have the consolation of knowing that they will certainly pass the bill this week.

Probably no amendment added to the tariff bill by the Senate will give more general satisfaction than that which imposes a tax on every certificate of stock and bond other than those issued by the Government, National, State or Municipal. In addition to raising revenue to a large amount from a class who will not find it a burden, this amendment if it remains in the bill until it becomes a law, as it probably will, will drive the places known as "bucket shops" out of business, because to fail to pay the tax on such trsnsactions will be to acknowledge that they do not actually sell the stock, but merely accept bets on whether the price will go up or down, and to make their proprietors amenable to the laws against gambling; to pay the tax will bankrupt them. It will probably also lessen the business done in the legitimate stock exchanges, because the tax will add to the expense of buying and selling stock for speculation, but there are thousands who will regard it a great blessing to the country if stock speculation as a business was entirely broken up. It is a business that produces nothing useful and adds nothing to the real wealth of the country, while it annually demoralizes and drives to the dogs thousands of business men who might continue to be useful citizens if it were not for stock speculating.

There was an unusually large attendance at the meeting of the House to-day, as all Republican absentees had been notified to be present, because of the expectation that the tariff bill would be sent back from the Senate. All of the Republican Representatives now in Washington will remain in reach until the tariff bill is disposed of. The House took its usual adjournment until Thursday, and it is hoped that the Senate will have passed the tariff bill before that day.

The last Democratic Senator to find out that Senator Chandler is always loaded, was White, of California. Mr. Chandler was making a few remarks on the reciprocity amendment to the tariff bill, which was reported from the Finance committee and adopted by the Senate, when Mr. White tried to be "funny" by asking him if he had been commissioned by the Finance committee to occupy the floor until the next amendment was ready. Quick as a flash Mr. Chandler responded, with an exasperating smile: "Oh, no! I have been asked merely to occupy the floor to look out for anything that the Senator from California may say worthy of notice. As nothing of the kind has occurred, I will continue to confine my remarks to reciprocity." Mr. White dropped into his seat and sought consolation by putting extra vigor in the movement of a big palm leaf fan, while Senator Tillman, who had received his dose of Chandler drops several days before, made no attempt to conceal a broad grin.

It is learned from authoritative sources that President McKinley may send a special message to Congress in a few days, strongly recommending legislation for the appointment of a Commission to investigate and report upon the reform needed in our present currency system. If this message is sent to Congress, it will not be with the expectation that the matter will be acted upon at the present session, but for the purpose of getting it before the country for discussion and suggestion. It is pretty thoroughly understood that no other legislation will be taken up by Congress after the tariff bill is disposed of.

Mr. Scott, the West Va. member of the Republican National committee, says he has information that the big strike in the coal mines is part of a Democratic scheme to carry Ohio. He says the idea of the Democratic instigators of the strike is that it will cut off the supply of coal and result in at least a partial paralysis of the big manufacturing industries of Ohio. Then they will charge the Republican party with the responsibility for that condition of affairs and will make an attempt to hold up Senator Hanna as an oppressor of labor. Mr. Scott added that he did not believe the scheme would succeed, and that the strikes would do the Republicans of Ohio little, if any, harm.

NONQUIT, Mass., July 5.—Henry B. Stone of Chicago, vice-president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, was instantly killed by the explosion of a bomb at his summer home here to-day. The children were discharging fireworks on the lawn. Mr. Stone's little daughter asked him to fire off a bomb. He lighted it and threw it from him, but the explosion did not follow. After waiting a short time Mr. Stone cautiously approached the spot where the bomb lay and bent over to see what the trouble was. Just then it exploded. Large fragments struck him in the forehead and he fell, instantly killed.

AMERICAN CAMELS.

THE "SHIP OF THE DESERT" IMPORTED FROM ARABIA AND EGYPT.

An Experiment which Proved of No Value to the Government. The Animals at Last Allowed to Wander Over the Prairies at Their Own Sweet Will.

In 1852, when millions of gold were being mined in California, while thousands of people were crossing the plains to the new Dorado, and when a transcontinental railroad was only a vague dream of a few enthusiasts, Lieutenant Edward B. Beale (afterward General Beale) was stationed at Fort Yuma, between California and Arizona on the Colorado Desert. A stream of immigration and freight passed that way every week. The disease, suffering and frequent death among the horses and mules in that dry, solar heat, convinced Lieutenant Beale that here, of all places, was where the camels of Sahara and Arabia could be used to advantage. In connection with Captain Adams, of the garrison, he wrote at length upon the subject to Jefferson Davis, Secretary of War.

The ideas of the young military men in the West had immediate and enthusiastic reception by the Secretary. A Commission was soon sent out from San Antonio, Tex., to Arizona, to ascertain the uses that camels could be put to in military transportation. The Commission made a favorable report, and, with Secretary Davis's annual report to Congress in 1852 there was a request for an appropriation for the purchase of camels for the War Department.

On March 3, 1853, a bill appropriating $30,000 for the purpose became a law by the President's signature, and Secretary Davis appointed Major C. Wayne in December, 1854, to go to Egypt and Arabia to buy seventy-five camels.

Lieutenant Porter and Major Wayne bought their first camels in Tunis. From Egypt Major Wayne and Lieutenant Porter went lleusurely over to Arabia. There they bought more camels of another breed. The expedition received at Smyrna thirty-three camels from the interior.

In the Government book Secretary Davis tells in detail how he instructed Major Wayne to proceed from Paris to Cairo, and when he had bought his camels to bring them to New York on the Naval Storeship Supply, then under command of Lieutenant D. D. Porter.

Lieutenant Porter's instructions were to await Major Wayne at some convenient point in the Mediterranean, to disembark a land force at Beirout, and to see that the expedition was amply protected against attacks from the warlike tribes of the interior. On returning, the lieutenant was to land his cargo at some point on the coast of Texas.

The storeship Supply reached Indianola, Tex., on February 10, having lost three camels on the voyage. Those that survived were well, and the whole drove was taken under the care of Captain J. N. Palmer, U. S. A., to Camp Verde, Texas, there to be kept several years. The Suwanee brought in a load of forty-one camels on February 10, 1857, and these, too, were sent to the interior.

Almost from the first there was difficulty in grooming and feeding the animals. In a few weeks several died of unknown diseases, and others languished and became unfit for work. The military officers found it hard to get any hostler to attend to the camels, towards which all the cavalrymen and troopers took a violent dislike. The horses became restive and ugly when stabled or corralled with the strange beasts. There were frequent reports that a camel or two had broken away during the night and wandered away; and it has been suspected that extraordinary zeal was not always put forth to find the animals and bring them back.

From May 5, 1861, some thirty of the camels that had become partly domesticated to American ways and adapted to the climate of the Southwest, were kept at the United States forts at El Paso and Bowie, Ariz. They were fed and cared for at the expense of the War Department, but because the troopers and teamsters could not be got use them in place of horses or mules, and especially because of the clumsiness of the harness and the unusual labor in packing, the animals were seldom used. In the last year or two of their stay at the garrison they were merely pensioners upon Uncle Sam's bounty, and were never brought into service. In 1861 the herd had increased to forty-four head. Then the Cival War came on, and in the stir of those days in every fort in the South all attention was turned to the great crisis. The forts fell into disuse, and the beasts were allowed to wander away at will. They travelled in pairs, and sometimes in bunches of four and six, across the deserts and into the mountains. Some lived for years in the Panhandle of Texas, and in the Colorado River. In some instances the camels multiplied, but in twenty years most of them died among the mountains or were killed by the Indians.

At intervals in the last decade soldiers and cow-boys in New-Mexico and Arizona have seen the strays. Reports are that the animals have grown white with age, are as wild as any mustang, and have hard, bony hoofs, unlike the pedal cushions of the well-kept camel, and that their hide has assumed a hard, leathery appearance. It is likely there are few left in America. They have not been seen in the central part of either New-Mexico or Arizona in several years.—From the Land of Sunshine.

An Early Morning Wedding.

On Wednesday at 7:30 o'clock a very pretty but solemn wedding ceremony took place at St. John's Catholic church, on Bishop street. The contracting parties were Miss Elizabeth Shaughensy and Mr. John Nolan, both of this city.

Promptly at the hour appointed they took their places at the altar, and the services then began which united them for life. The ceremony was performed by Rev. P. McArdle. The best man was Mr. Daniel Nolan, a brother of the groom, and the bridesmaid was Miss Louise Crumbaugh.

At the close of the ceremony the bride and groom and their friends went at once to the home of the bride, where a splendid wedding breakfast awaited them, which was highly enjoyed by all.

The bride is a daughter of Street Commissioner Thomas Shaughensy, and was for sometime employed as a compositor in the Centre Democrat office. She is a bright and pretty young lady and will no doubt make a fitting helpmate through life. The groom is a sober and industrious young man and is employed by the Bellefonte Central Railroad company as station agent at Coleville.

Wearing Veils.

This custom of the fair sex has some things in its favor. The complexion is protected against the sun and wind, which bring freckles and tan. Also the coarse dust is strained out of the air that is breathed. But there are things against this custom also, the most important being the loss of free circulating air. The same air is breathed over and over again. Women ought always breathe pure air. Good ventilation, open air, out-door exercise, are what most women are suffering for. Some women are invalids, and are necessarily deprived of these blessings. Such women ought to write Dr. Hartman Columbus, Ohio Answers free.

Pe-ru-na is the greatest remedy known for the ills of women. MRS. A. T. Lewis, of Talmadge, Ala., says: "Pe-ru-na is the best medicine I ever used for pains. I recommend it to suffering women."

All those who desire Dr. Hartman's latest book on this interesting subject can obtain one for a short time free by addressing The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio.

Art Idols of the Paris Salon.

The eleventh number of this high class quarterly periodical, each part containing six large pictures of female nude figures which have been exhibited at the Paris Salon, has been issued, bearing date of July, 1897. The pictures of this issue include:

"The Sculptor's Studio," representing a model and the clay figure side by side, with the sculptor putting the finishing touches on the latter.

"Apple Blossoms," representing a finely formed woman under an apple tree in the full bloom of early spring.

"The Interrupted Sitting" showing a sprightly model with a shawl hastily thrown about her, hiding only part of her figure.

"Sleep," a nude figure reposing behind a wealth of delicate drapery.

"Paquerette," representing a nude young girl lying on her back amid a wealth of paquerettes (maguerites), preparing to count off the leaves with "He loves me, he loves me not," etc.

"Virgin love," an exceedingly graceful figure scarcely passed "sweet sixteen" represented as having just been touched by the wand of Cupid.

The first named picture is by the world-renowned Gerome, and the others by the lesser known but quite as virile painters of the younger school. The text is by the editor, Earl Marble, the well-known art critic, who describes the last mentioned picture in a dainty poem. The White City Art Co., Publishers. The Water Question at Tyrone.

Wednesday the electors of Tyrone voted for or against granting borough council the authority to borrow not more than $108,000, to "provide for the supply of light and water to the public and the inhabitants of the borough of Tyrone, by the borough, by the purchase of the property and works of the Tyrone Gas and water Company or by such other means as the borough council may determine," as provided by ordinance No. 106, approved May 17, 1897.

The Tyrone Herald Tuesday published several communications from prominent citizens from surrounding cities in regard to the matter. Among the number was an interesting letter from Councilman Wm. Shortlidge of this place. It was as follows:

BELLEFONTE, PA., July 1, 1897.

F. R. Waring, Tyrone, Pa. Dear sir: Your letter of the 28th ult. addressed to Clement Dale, making inquiry about our water works, has been handed to me for a reply. I do not have the figures before me to tell you what they cost. When D. G. Bush was living and our town was about one hundred thousand dollars in debt, he offered to buy the water works and pay the debt, which we refused. This is my tenth year in the Council and my experience and judgment leads me to believe that all towns should control their water supply. I believe that they can get their water cheaper than a company will furnish it. Without looking, I think our expences, without any extraordinary expences, is something over three thousand dollars per year. We supply 4500 people with water at the rate of more than 200 gallons per day for each individual, which shows a most profligate waste, nevertheless, if the Council makes an effort to reduce this waste, everybody that wastes water objects, which I believe ought to be reformed

There is one thing about Borough ownership and that is a great number of wasteful people assume to do as they please, waste water or not and if the Superintendent interferes, they clamor to have him put out. On the whole, I consider it the best for the people of towns to own and control their water supply. I have given this matter considerable attention in visiting other towns, where I find they pay very much more for the water, controlled by private corporation, than they do when the town owns and controls the water,

Yours respectfully,

WM. SHORTLIDGE.

WORK OF DYNAMITERS

ALL THIS OCCURRED AT SCRANTON

MANY HOUSES WERE DESTROYED

SCRANTON, June 29.—A dynamite explosion early this morning in South Scranton blew up the business block of Leon Olchofski, a double dwelling block owned by him and a detached house owned by Michael O'Hara. The business block, a two story building, was torn to pieces. Twenty other houses had all the window blown out and plaster torn from the walls. The shock was felt all over the city.

The cause of the explosion is unknown, but Olchofski alleged that it was the work of enimies he made during political and church disputes in that section, he being one of the principles in the row which led to a split in the Polish congregation. Olchofski was seriously injured in saving his wife and his recovery is doubtful.

Following the explosion the wrecked building took fire, but the firemen kept the flames from spreading. The other properties seriously damaged were the brick business block and dwelling of Charles Johnson, dwellings of William Grambe, Charles Kiefer, John Kline, Michael Joyce, Dr. J. J. Walsh, James Welsh, Adam Eflinger, Bridget Lavell, Joseph Dedims, Philip Klein Carl Scheurman and George Gardner, and B. Huse's blacksmith shop.

In some of the houses the sleeping people were covered with falling plaster. The infant child of Michael Joyce was dangerously injured and a little son of John Klein almost suffocated. The total loss will reach $25,000.

Chiefs Robling and Hickey, of the police and fire departments, respectively, and corps of assistants, worked with a great eagerness to-day in an effort to fix the responcibility for the explosion. They had not ordered any arrests up to late hour to-night It is generally believed that Leon Olchofski, owner of the main building, will be arrested soon. He is now closely watched. A bureau that was removed during the fire from his double dwelling at the rear of the store, was found saturated with kerosene in all its three big drawers He had his clothes on when the explosion occured and after rushing from the house, fell senseless in the street. His apparel was saturated with kerosene. The wreckage in the streets was partially removed to day and no bodies were found. Experts say that about 100 pounds of dynamite or a proportionate amount of some equally powerful agent must have been used.

Olchofski was arrested to-night for arson on alderman's warrant and committed to the Central police station to await a continued hearing to-morrow.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounce it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

His Yacht Was a Failure.

NEW YORK, June 29.—Franklin Bossford, who was a marine designer and yachting editor of Outing, committed suicide yesterday [illegible] the yacht Larada, at Jersey City He was 43 years old. It is thought that disappointment that the Larada, which he had built, expecting to produce the fastest steam yacht afloat, had proved a failure, was the cause of his suicide. Bossford left a letter to a friend, in which he said: "I am thoroughly discouraged about my boat. I am practically without money to finish it, and I find I can go no further. Structurally, it is a success, but the incompetence and opposition of others has necessitated much expense, which I am no longer able to stand."

Mr. Bossford had predicted that the Laurada would make a revolution in the building of steamships. His experiments with a miniature steam yacht gave him expectations which the Laurada failed to fulfill. Mr. Bossford also made a nondescript craft propelled by foot power, on pedals like a bicycle. It was a failure. He had painted pictures of the ships of the White Squadron, and had a reputation as a portrait painter.

It is said that men whom Bossford had induced to take a financial interest in the Laurada and in his patent, procured a few months ago, on a contrivance for the marine engines, were convinced that his idea was not good, and refused to invest any more money.

Fell Nine Stories to Death

ATLANTA, Ga., June 28.—A derrick on the roof of a new building fell at 1 o'clock this afternoon, knocking three workmen from a scaffolding on the ninth story. Two of them, Palmetto Ayres and Charles Kargill, both colored, were dashed to instant death on the ground, 125 feet below, and the third, W. M. Brown, white, was saved in a most miraculous way. He was cut about the head and arms.

The men were standing on a platform which skirts the edge of the ninth floor when the derricks fell. The part of the scaffolding upon which they stood was swept away and the men were thrown into space. Brown, by the wildest freak of luck, grasped one of the derrick ropes as he shot through the air. As the boom of the hoisting engine fell the ropes on the tackle were set in motion, one going up and the other down. It was Brown's good fortune to catch the rope being drawn upward and he was hauled safely to the roof.

To another boom of the derrick projecting out on the other side of the building was attached a car in which four men were standing. This boom likewise fell, but was held up by the roof. The car was dashed over the side of the building and swung there in safety. The men were shoved through a window, none of them being injured.

Mr. Gammon, superintendent of derricks, believes that the killing of the two men was no accident. It was, in his opinion, a plot on the part of some one at work on this building that the derrick should fall.

Arnold for Governor.

CLEARFIELD, Pa., June 29.—The Republican county convention today nominated the following ticket: For sheriff, D. D. Gingery, Bradford; district attorney, A. H. Woodward, Clearfield; jury commissioner, J. E. Phillips, Decatur; coroner, Dr. J. Currier, Grampian.

Resolutions were adopted reaffirming allegiance to the platform of 1896; indorsing President McKinley's administration and the tariff bill, and Congressman William C. Arnold, of DuBois, for Governor. County Chairman W. I. Shaw, of Houtzdale, was unanimously re-elected.

Attempted Suicide.

MILFORD, Pa., June 18.—Paul Herman Schulz, who on June 13 was found guilty of murder in the first degree for killing his wife, attempted to commit suicide this morning by strangulation. Schulz tore a strip from a bed quilt and tied it tightly around his neck. He was discovered by Night Watchman Terwilliger before life was extinct. Dr. Wenner was quickly summoned, and after working with Schulz for half an hour finally revived him.

Schulz had written a farewell letter in which he denied having murdered his wife.

He still refuses food and says that he will starve himself to death before the day of execution.

—Tyrone seems to be drinking a good bit of hot whiskey of late, as they were calling for more ice. Thursday it was visited again by another severe hail storm, although nodamage was done to that section of the country, but around through Centre Co. the wheat crop suffered very much from the wind and rain.

A FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT

HIS NECK WAS BROKEN

HIS DEATH WAS INSTANTANEOUS

One of the most frightful accidents that has occurred in Centre county for sometime happened on the farm of John Seibert, four miles west of Bellefonte, Thursday evening, about 5:00 o'clock, when Charles Dale, the little 5-year-old son of Samuel Dale, of Warriorsmark, was instantly killed.

The lad was a grandson of Mr. Seibert and, with his mother, was visiting at the country place of the Seiberts, where, in the afternoon of this fatal day, the farm hands were engaged in hauling in hay, and had just unloaded a wagon in the barn and started to go back to the field. The team was standing near the barn and the child was swinging on the stay-chains, when the horses started and he was thrown under the wheels.

No sound came from the little fellow's lips, but John Seibert just came out of the house at the instant the rear wheels were passing over the lad's neck. He caught up the lifeless form of his little grandson, but it was too late, the heavy front wheels had killed him. His neck was broken.

The child was carried into the house and word was sent at once to Bellefonte for a physician, but it was without avail. His little spirit had taken it's flight when the physician arrived.

The parents of the unfortunate child are almost crazed with grief over their loss, and they certainly have the sincere sympathy of the public in this their hour of direst affliction.

The funeral took place on Friday at 3:00 o'clock p. m., from the Seibert home. Interment in the Buffalo Run cemetery. Rev. D. L. Jones, pastor of Buffalo Run Presbyterian church, conducted the services.

Heroic Action of a Young Lady.

At Williamsport Tuesday the youngest daughter of Rev. G. W. Stevens, while shooting fire crackers with her brother, picked up a squib after it had exploded and began blowing it. The few remaining sparks ignited and were scattered over the light material in the child's dress, which at once burst out in flames. Miss Florence Duffy was near by, and running to the child she wrapped her own dress and skirts about her and succeeded in extinguishing the flames. The child was thus saved a frightful burning. As it was, the lower Portion of her body and her hands, arms and face were somewhat scorched. Mrs. Duffy's hands and arms were also burned.

Anti-Quay People Win in Potter.

COUDERSPORT, Pa., June [illegible] 29. The Republican county convention met here to day and nominated Thomas A. Morrison for assistant law judge; S. K. Stevens for associate judge; T. M. Sinsabaugh for jury commissioner, and W. D. Brightman and D. T. Hauber for state delegates.

The anti-Quay people were successful in nominating their entire ticket. In the fight for district delegates ex-Congressman Leonard, the Quay leader, lost his own ward.

Man and Horse Killed.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 28.—Patrick J. Buckley, a popular butcher, living in Agawam, was killed by the Albany express in Mittencague last evening. The wagon was struck by the engine and smashed into small pieces, and Mr. Buckley was frightfully mangled. The horse was also killed.

An Important Decision.

A decision important to anglers has been made by the supreme court of Pennsylvania through Judge Sterrit holding that the streams stocked with fish procured from the State Fish Commission are not private, and all streams are public unless the fish are actually propagated. To do this so that the stream may become legally private, the spawn of the fish to be propagated must be kept in a seperate screen cell, the fry when hatched put into another screen cell, and so on until they are large enough to take care of themselves. Even then if the person who is propagating them would own them he must keep them confined by themselves, and so much of the stream becomes private as is within the screens placed there by the owner. A pond surrounded by the owner's land, without any continuous flow, may be called a private pond, but if the water of a pond covers a large surface of ground, and a person whose lands are covered only by a part of the water, places fish therein for the purpose of propagation, he does not by such act make it a private pond. Neither is a notice that "all persons are hereby notified not to trespass on these lands or to fish in this pond" a sufficient notice to make it illegal for either strangers or neighbors to trespass or fish. The mere placing of fish in a stream or pond for the purpose of propagation does not make such water private under the statute even on the property of the person where the fish were put in.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common water glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates a diseased condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. HOWARD.

Howard Happenings.

Messrs. Clyde Long, Fred. and George Leathers, who have business engagements in Clearfield, returned home last Saturday to spend a short time with their parents.

There seems to be a magnetic attraction for certain Bellefonte cyclers in this place

Mr. M. B. Derr, of Bellefonte, made a flying trip to our town last week.

Miss Mabel Swenk and Mrs. Pearl DeHaas, of Milton, are visiting Mr. Mrs. J. L. DeHaas.

Miss Wilson, of Salona, is being entertained by Miss Beth Stitzer.

Mr. Benj. White, of Farrandsville, spent a few days among relatives in this place.

Last Saturday Mrs. Henderson and son, William, were called to the bedside of Mrs. Latham, of Tyrone, a daughter of Mrs. Henderson. She has been very seriously ill, and her many friends in Howard will be glad to know that at this writing she is slowly improving.

The G. A. R. held a festival here last Saturday evening. It was largely attended and well patronized.

While lighting a Roman candle last Saturday it accidentally exploded, burning the hand of Chester Moore, who was holding it, and also striking Wm. Shay, who was standing nearby.

Last Wednesday the Lock Haven base ball team crossed bats with the Howard team for the second time this season. The former team was defeated by the score of 20 to 11. The score by innings was as follows:

Howard,	2	6	0	4	1	3	2	2	0	—20
L'k Haven,	0	2	3	3	1	0	2	0	0	—11

Batteries—Pletcher and Lucas for Howard; Hawkins, Glenn and Patterson for Lock Haven.

Romola Rumbleings.

C. V. DeLong, made a flying trip to Unionville last week.

Chas. Weaver has returned home after an absence of two months.

The Summit Hill Sunday school will hold a picnic and festival Saturday July, 31st.

Jos. Bechdel passed through this place with a Deering pony binder on Tuesday.

John Mauer, Sr., is improving slowly.

Mrs. Linnie Weaver is still in a critical condition.

Our teachers were elected on last Saturday and the directors made a good selection. Laurel

College Band Work.

The State committee of the Young Men's Christian Association, under the supervision of their College Secretary Hugh McAlister Beaver, will send out several bands of young men during the vacation months to do evangelistic work in small towns. Two bands of young men will go from Bucknell College, one from Susquehanna University, and one from Princeton College, New Jersey. Their work during July and August will be in the small towns of North-eastern and North-western Penna. This kind of work has been carried on for several years with very satisfactory results. The gospel is presented in a simple way yet with power; many are brought to acknowledge Christ for the first time: interest in church work is aroused and communities in which they labor are greatly blessed. The work is not conducted on the usual plan of evangelistic work, where the financial part is the principle factor, but the young men depend upon the voluntary offerings made by the people, which often is not enough to meet their expenses. All deficiencies are met by the State Committee. The young men receive no remunerative for their work, except their expenses are paid. Much credit is due the College Secretary in organizing this movement which is proving such a great blessing to many weak country churches. They deserve the prayers and support of every christian man and woman, in their noble work.

Debs' Scheme Abandoned.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 29.—Victor S. Berger, editor of a Socialist organ, gave out a statement to-night on his return from a conference with Eugent V. Debs. He says the scheme to plant a Socialist colony in the West has been abandoned and to take its place there will be a small migration of unemployed men to the State of Washington.

They will look for homes there the same as other settlers and the expense of transporting them will be paid through a per capita tax of 15 cents a month on members of the Social Democracy, Debs' new party. Debs will remain in the East and he and his associates will devote themselves to the cause of Socialism through this political party and the ballot.

A Swindler on His Rounds.

All church members, and especially Baptists, should be on their guard against a fraud who is traveling about this part of the state. He is rather tall, smooth faced, and clothing quite seedy. He knows every Baptist minister and claims to have recommendations from all. In one place he represents himself as canvassing a book, at another is agent for religious newspapers, and again he is writing up Baptist history. He is always in need of just $2 or $2.50, having failed to receive a remittance from the firm.

Miss Maggie Hannah

DANVILLE, ILL.

Long Suffering from Headache Cured by Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine.

HEADACHES are the bane of woman's life. Frequently relieved but seldom permanently cured, the ultimate result is continual misery. Miss Maggie Hannah, 521 Chestnut St., Danville, Ill., says in June 1896: "I cannot add to my testimony of last year except that I am well and strong. Two years ago I had such a pain in my head that I ate nothing, was desperately nervous and could not sleep. Other complications peculiar to my sex set in and our physician called another in consultation. They decided I had consumption and must die. I commenced taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and the second night obtained the first nights real sleep in four weeks. I know that Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine saved my life.

A Bloody Encounter.

On Saturday evening Edgar Smith, a colored man, hostler at Lewis Port's livery stable, Huntingdon Pa., came near ending the lives of two citizens, while under the influence of liquor. The fracas started near the corner of Fourth and Penn streets by Smith knocking off Jim Zeck's hat, when Harry Decker chided Smith for striking the half-witted young man. Smith turned on Decker, and drew a long bladed knife with which he cut Decker on the left breast, but fortunately the wound was not deep enough to reach the heart. Kauffman interfered, and Smith cut an ugly gash along his left arm into the muscle, and then fled. The wounded men had their wounds dressed by Dr. Harman. Smith was arrested the same evening and lodged in the lock-up. He will have to answer for his crime at the next term of court.—Huntingdon Daily News.

The confidence of the people in Hood's Sarsaparilla is due to its unequalled record of wonderful cures.

COSTLIEST OF FISH HOOKS.

The Tarpon Hook and the Various Elaborate Attachments That Go With It.

The most costly of fish hooks are those for tarpon. They are sold at retail at various prices from $1 a dozen for bare hooks up to $7 a dozen for hooks fitted up. The standard tarpon hook is four inches in length. Some tarpon fishermen prefer to mount their own hooks. They have ideas of their own as to the best way and the best materials. A swivel is always used. Some of the hooks that are sold fitted up have snells of German silver chain. Sometimes laces of rawhide or porpoise skin are used for snells. Some hooks are fitted with snells of piano wire two feet long, made in three lengths of eight inches each, linked to prevent kinking. Fitted up tarpon hooks that are sold for $7 a dozen are provided with thirty-six inch braided or plaited linen snells, wound for two-thirds of their length, from the upper end downward, with copper wire. The tarpon swallows the hook, and its teeth are brought up on the snell where it is protected by the copper wire. Sometimes a shark takes the bait. It is desired to lose the shark without the trouble of hauling it in and casting it off, and the shark is likely to free itself by biting through the unprotected lower third of the snell.

While the tarpon hook is the costliest of hooks, there are flys that sell for more; there are some salmon flys that retail as high as $9 a dozen.—New York Sun.

ZACHARY TAYLOR'S FACE.

It Had the Same Appearance as When He Died Nearly Fifty Years Ago.

On the day that New Yorkers were doing honor to the memory of Gen. Grant, a small group of friends of another President went to his tomb to look at his sturdy face and recall the stories of his stirring life, which went out almost half a century ago. The few friends surrounded the modest tomb of old Rough and Ready Taylor in a graveyard scarcely a stone's throw beyond the limits of Louisville, Ky. Accompanied by an undertaker they were making their annual visit to the tomb to inspect the metallic case to see that every joint was sealed so as to prevent the air from entering.

The glass covering the face of the dead executive is always exposed at these times. The face was wonderfully preserved, and the features looked, but for a few wrinkles, just as they did forty-seven years ago. The face was as white as marble, and everything about the body seemed to be unchanged and perfectly preserved.

The Taylor family burial ground is two miles northeast of St. Matthew's, a suburb of Louisville, on the Short Line Railroad, and is one of the most beautiful in the State. Probably, with the one exception of the vault of the first President at Mount Vernon, none of the Executives of the United States lies in a more beautiful spot than does Gen. Zachary Taylor.—New York Sun.

PERSONS OF NOTE.

The father of Senator Foraker, of Ohio, was a farmer. He had eleven children, six being boys, and money was none too plenty. The boys all worked on the farm, and the future Governor and Senator was taught to wash and iron, to milk, cook and spin, and, in addition to this, to pick the geese at the proper time of the year.

The Rev. John McNeill, who arrived in this country recently, is an eloquent and magnetic preacher, and has proved himself to be more attractive than a circus. On one occasion he was advertised to begin a series of meetings in the capital of the Transvaal. On his arrival in the city he found a variety show under way in the theatre. On his first night large numbers preferred to hear him instead of seeing the show, and on the second night only one man presented himself at the box office, and he had his money returned. Mr. McNeill began his ministry in a small Presbyterian church in Edinburgh, having declined a call to a larger church in Glasgow. Achieving large success there, he was called, after three years, to Regent Square Presbyterian Church, London, a historic pulpit, where Edward Irving, James Hamilton and Oswald Dykes had been his famous predecessors in the pastorate. After remaining there a few years, Mr. Moody's attention was directed to him, and at his invitation Mr. McNeill gave himself to evangelistic work.

The Queen of Greece.

It is said by a lady who recently visited Greece and had the honor of meeting the royal family, that perfect harmony existed between them, and the King and Queen are devoted to their children. The Queen is still a very beautiful woman, and the only lady Admiral in the world. She holds this rank in the Russian army, an honorary appointment conferred on her by the late Tsar, because her father held the rank of High Admiral, and for the reason that she is a very capable yachtswoman. The King has a very remarkable memory, an interesting personality, and is a brilliant conversationalist. He goes about the streets of Athens without any attendants, and talks with any friend he chances to meet. Prince George is very attractive, and his feats of strength, shown often in the cause of chivalry, are a continuous subject of conversation among the people.—New York Sun.

BURNED BY MOLTEN LEAD.

The Winner of State College Oratorical Contest Reported Dead.

Robert Kerr Stevenson, a civil engineer student of Pennsylvania State College, whose home is at Morris Run, Tioga county, Pa., is reported to have died at the Maryland hospital, Baltimore, Saturday night, from injuries received on the evening before at the works of the Maryland Steel company, at Sparrow's Point.

He was engaged in acquiring practical ideas of steelmaking and was passing near an oven at one of the furnaces when an explosion of gas hurled the molten metal over him. The young man was terribly burned, as was also Alfred Howel, an old colored man, an employe of the works, who was standing near him.

Stevenson is a third year man at the college, and is the man who took the first prize in the Junior Oratorical contest held during commencement week. All who attended this exercise will remember him and be sorry to learn of his untimely end.

Victoria Visits Her Birthplace.

LONDON, June 20.—The queen returned to London yesterday afternoon—her final jubilee day but one—and made what most probably her last jubilee appearance in the metropolis, for with the celebration that closes at Aldershot on Thursday next, the state appearance of her majesty, it is said on fair official authority, will be finished; that hence forth for whatever span of life may be left to her, Queen Victoria will confine herself to such work for the state as can be done at windsor, Balmoral or Osborne. Earlier in the day her Majesty visited Kensington, her birthplace.

The great international question of the hour, and American questions of a political or economic character, are discussed in the editorial department of the American Monthly Review of Reviews for July. The project of Hawaiian annexation claims precedence in the review of current topics, entitled "The Progress of the World." The editor also comments on the present status of the Cuban question, on the situation in Spanish politics, and on our trade relations with the South American republics. This department deals, too, with the problems resulting from the Turco-Grecian war and other grave complications in the Orient. In domestic matters, the proposed currency commission and the labor conditions of the country receive special attention

—The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the United Brethern church will give an entertainment on Thursday evening July 8th. A miscellaneous program will be rendered, by the children the small sum of five cents will be charged at the door for admission.

A 16-Year-Old Girl has Nervous Prostration

From the Era, Bradford, Pa.

Several months ago, Miss Cora Watrous, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Mr. I. C. Watrous, a locomotive fireman, of 61 Clarion Street, Bradford, Penna., was seized with a nervous disorder which threatened to end her life. The first symptom of the ailment was a loss of appetite. For some little time Miss Watrous had no desire to eat and complained of a feeling of extreme lassitude. This was followed by severe pains in the head. For three weeks the young lady was nearly crazed with a terrible headache and nothing could be procured to give her relief.

Finally, after trying numerous remedies, a physician was called and began treating the patient. He said the trouble was caused by impoverished blood, but after several weeks of his treatment the young lady's condition had not improved and the parents decided to procure the services of another physician. In the meantime Miss Watrous' nervousness had increased, the pains in her head had grown more severe and the sufferer's parents had almost given up hope of her recovery.

It was at this time that Mr. Watrous heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. He found that the pills were highly recommended for nervous disorders and concluded to give them a trial. A box of the pills was purchased and before they had all been taken there was a marked improvement in the girl's condition. After a half dozen boxes had been used, the young lady's appetite had returned, the pain in her head had ceased and she was stronger than at any time previous to her illness.

Miss Watrous concluded that her cure was complete and left home for a visit to relatives in the grape country near Dunkirk, N. Y. She stopped taking the medicine and by over-exertion brought the ailment back again. As soon as the returning symptoms were felt, Miss Watrous secured another box of pills and the illness was soon driven away. She is now in better physical condition than she has been for years and declares that she owes her life to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Mr. and Mrs. Watrous were interviewed by a reporter at their home on Clarion Street. Both are loud in their praises of Pink Pills. "My daughter's life was saved by the medicine," said Mrs. Watrous. "Her condition was almost hopeless when she commenced taking them, but now she is as strong and healthy as any one could be. I cannot recommend the medicine too highly."

An analysis of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills shows that they contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, all forms of weakness either in male or female, and all diseases resulting from vitiated humors in the blood. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50—(they are never sold in bulk or by the 100) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Sensational Scene in Court.

Norristown, Pa., July 1,—Judge Swartz to-day denied the motion for a new trial for Charles O. Kaiser, jr, who was recently convicted of having murdered his wife, Emma Kaiser, on October 28, 1896, and sentenced the murderer to be hanged.

There was a dramatic scene in the court room while Judge Swartz was pronouncing the death sentence. When the judge had finished reading the opinion refusing the condemned man a new trial, he asked Kaiser if he had anything to say. The latter replied: "Nothing except that I am innocent."

"By that verdict," said the Judge, "You have been declared guilty of a most heinous crime. The wife of your bosom, whom you promised to love, you have most foully murdered."

"It's false," cried the prisoner excitedly, wildly gesticulating with his arms. Sentence was then pronounced and Kaiser was led from the room.

Counsel for the murderer say they will make an appeal to the supreme court.

Kaiser shot his wife while out driving and tried to avoid suspicion by saying they had been held up by burglars and robbed.

Good Showing for June.

Washington, July 1.—The monthly comparative statement of the government receipts and expenditures shows that during the month of June the receipts from all sources amounted to $36,584,708 and the expenditures $22,934,694, leaving a surplus for the month of $13,650,014.

The statement shows that the deficit for the fiscal year closed yesterday was $18,623,108, a reduction of $31,821,985 since March 11 of the present year.

Engineer's Peril.

Bellefonte, July 1.—P. K. Fennett, a Lycoming county engineer, had a thrilling experience between rattlesnakes and a threatened boiler explosion. Fennett was engaged to go into the Allegheny mountains to take charge of a sawmill that had been lying idle for a year or more. To get the machinery in fit condition for operation took several days, and then the engineer put fire under the boilers and contemplated soon being ready to run. Called to some other part of the mill, he returned to the boiler room to find the steam gauge registering 110 pounds pressure.

In his nervous excitement Fennett jerked the door of the engine house shut, and an outside latch fell, making him a prisoner. Little heeding this, he started for the safety valve, which had rusted and refused to work. He went to climb up the masonry to the top of the boilers, when he saw a large rattlesnake curled around one of the pipes. Jumping back quickly, his foot came down on something soft, which also proved to be a rattler. Taking a hasty survey of the surroundings, Fennett saw not less than a half dozen large reptiles, all frisky and ready for fight. The fire in the boilers had warmed the walls and the snakes had come out of their hiding place.

Realizing that it was only a question of either fighting for his life, being bitten to death by the snakes or blown to atoms by an exploding boiler, Fennett went to work on the snakes first. With a large poker he managed to kill all but one of the reptiles, the other escaping, then hastily climbed up and knocked loose the safety valve just as the guage registered 120 pounds. In a few minutes more there would undoubtedly have been an explosion, a wrecked building and perhaps several men killed.—Altoona Times.

Two Armies—the Regular and Irregular.

To which would you prefer to belong? The regular, undoubtedly. The irregulars are, admittedly, the most numerous, but they are in a very undesirable state of nodiscipline, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will soon remedy this want in a disordered liver or bowels. Biliousness manifests itself in yellowness of the skin and eyeball, sour breath, furred tongue, morning nausea, discomfort in the vicinity of the liver, vertigo and sick headache. Hosts of people suffer thus. These signs of insubordination to the goverance of health, together with an irregular condition of the bowels, are soon regulated by the Bitters, which also overcomes Malaria, dyspepsia, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness and kidney trouble. As a means of checking premature decay, hastening convalescence and mitigating the infirmities of age, the great tonic is without a parallel.

APPOINTMENT OF WASHINGTON

Five Hundred Dollars Monthly Was Voted for His Expenses and Salary.

To his majesty they professed as strongly as ever their devotion to his person, family and government; their deep regret at any event which could weaken their connection with his crown and their ardent desire for the restoration of harmony. To the people they strenuously repelled the charge of aiming at independence, which none of their actions were said to justify. They had never made overtures to any foreign power nor availed themselves of the weak state of the cities to become masters of them. Complaining, however, that the clemency of their sovereign was diverted, that their petitions were treated with indignity and that their prayers were answered by insults; they dreaded that the nation wanted either the will or the power to assist them. In that case they expressed a firm determination that, "while we revere the memory of our gallant and virtuous ancestors, we never can surrender those glorious privileges for which they fought, bled and conquered;—your fleets and armies can destroy our towns and ravage our coasts; these are inconsiderable objects—things of no moment to men whose bosoms glow with the ardor of liberty. We can retire beyond the reach of your navy and without any sensible diminution of the necessaries of life enjoy a luxury which from that period you will want—the luxury of being free."

Having emitted these declarations Congress proceeded to make military arrangements which should comprehend the whole range of colonies. All the troops within their limits were to be now called the Continental Army; committes were appointed to devise ways and means for supporting and supplying it with arms and stores and preparing regulations for its government. An issue of paper money was voted to the amount of three millions of dollars. The first object was considered to be the choice of a commander and in this respect they were singularly fortunate. There had at this time sprung up among them an uncommon number of men of distinguished abilities, and though some were in this respect superior to him, it was generally agreed that the fittest person was George Washington. Without very brilliant talents or even very extensive information he possessed sound sense, comprehensive views, a deep and devoted patriotism. These had been displayed in a manner so firm, simple and manly as rendered it impossible even to entertain a doubt of the thorough dependence which might be placed on his fidelity to the cause.

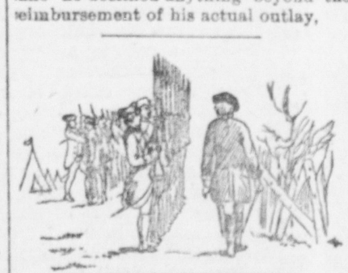
Five hundred dollars monthly had been voted for his pay and expenses, but being possessed of an ample fortune he declined anything beyond the reimbursement of his actual outlay,



TRAINING OF CONTINENTALS
—From an Engraving 1810.

THE GROWTH OF PYROTECHNICS

No Grander Effect Ever Reached than that Produced at the Centennial.

It is only within the last twenty years that the art of making fireworks has been brought to a high pitch of excellence. The Centennial at Philadelphia, in 1876, and the summer exhibitions at Manhattan Beach created a demand for something more than a firecraker, carbile or ordinary rocket.

The public of to-day craves big bombs, floating lights, intricate devices, aquatic wonders, and above all good colors. In no country in the world is there so great a demand for high class fireworks as in the United States. It is estimated that more than $1,000,000 is burned up in fireworks on every "Glorious Fourth" of July.

The ingenuity of pyrotechnists has been taxed to the utmost to supply new effects or invent combinations that should startle, as well as delight an insatiable public. Nothing finer will probably ever be devised than the balloon effect, which was one of the features of the World's Fair. A balloon was sent up over the lake with what appeared to be a lantern suspended from it. At a given moment the balloon blew up in a shower of sparks, while in its place was seen a blazing similitude of the Stars and Stripes suspended in mid-air.

THE WOMEN OF CUBA.

NOTED FOR THEIR BEAUTY OF FACE AND GRACEFUL FIGURES.

They are Warm Hearted and Affectionate, Displaying Much Devotion to Their Families—Not So Many Marrieges of Convenience in Cuba as in France.

Cuban women are noted for their beauty, somewhat resembling the Oriental type, with dark, languishing eyes, colorless complexions, small mouths, graceful, rounded forms, and exquisitely shaped hands and feet. Their Cinderella-like feet are probably due to the fact that Cuban women are not fond of exercise, although in the country they saunter around the grounds or take a brisk canter on horseback before breakfast. In town they arise early, as people usually do in the tropics, before the dew is off the grass, and take a turn in the garden or walk through the park.

When they go shopping they drive to the stores, but seldom alight from their carriages. Obsequious clerks hasten to bring out goods for their inspection, while they make their selection, glancing indifferently with their big black eyes at the passers-by, meanwhile, who pass close to their equipages, owing to the narrow sidewalks and thoroughfares. Sometimes ladies prefer to have samples sent to their residences, and do their shopping at home with still greater ease. In the tropics labor is simplified as much as possible, and time is not of much account. All social as well as domestic duties are carried out leisurely, and the rush and hurry of the metropolis are unknown.

The popular idea is that Cuban women are indolent, but such is not the case, although the torrid zone does impart a languid grace to every motion, while the bustling activity of Northern women is lacking. They find plenty to do at home in superintending their servants, attending to household duties, and embroidering or doing fine needle work, for Cuban women are skilled in the use of the needle, and of late years in the brush also, Cuba having produced many celebrated artists.

Flores de Mayo, Flowers of May, as the May festival to the Virgin is called, brings out many pretty maidens. Clad in white, wearing long white veils over their dark tresses, they repair to the evening service to carry flowers, going up to the altar two by two, and extending their floral offerings, which are received and placed on the altar by the acolytes.

Cuban girls are carefully shielded from the world, the prevailing customs in regard to chaperonage being similar to those of the French, as well as other customs. But a closer intercourse with the United States through education and travel has modified many of their customs, especially since so many Cubans have made our country their home by adoption.

Fewer marriages of convenience are made in Cuba than in France. Cuban women's hearts sway their heads. They are warm-hearted, passionate, and affectionate, while their affections center in their homes. As a rule they are true and faithful in family relations, and are devoted to their husbands and children. The only flaw, perhaps, is sometimes an overweening fondness for their offspring, which tends to harmful indulgence—harmful because excessive—for self-control should be taught a child, and wholesome discipline maintained.

The distinctive charms of Cuban maidens are their soft, gentle, and captivating ways, and languid grace. They are not as lively and independent as American girls, while their training and conventional life tend to render them more timid and dependent.—Harper's Bazar.

Quick Retort.

A young aide-de-camp who at a party in Dublin Castle once approached Archbishop Whately and asked: "Does your grace know what is the difference between an ass and an Archbishop?" "No," was the grave answer. Then the youth went on, "An ass has a cross on his back, but an Archbishop has a cross on his breast." "Very good," said the Archbishop; "now, will you tell me what is the difference between yourself and an ass?" "I don't know," said the youth. "Neither do I," said the Archbishop, and walked away.

An Unconquerable Prejudice.

"Dis is a fine piece," remarked Plodding Pete, who had been regaling himself with some literature which he had picked up on the way.

"What's it about?" asked Meandering Mike.

"About de beauties of nature. Come to t'ink of it, some o' dem is fine. Don't ye kind of enjoy lookin' over at evening and seein' de mountain bathed in light?"

"No," replied Meandering Mike. "Me nature's too sympathetic. I feel sorry for 'em."—Washington Star.

DEATH IN WRECKS.

Fatal Accidents Which Occurred on Western Roads Yesterday.

TWO EXCURSION TRAINS COLLIDE

As a Result Three Persons Were Killed Outright and More Than a Score Were Seriously Injured Near Chicago.

RAILROADERS LOSE THEIR LIVES

Chicago, June 30.—Three persons were killed outright and about 20 or 30 injured in a rear-end collision on the Chicago and Northwestern road, at 12:45 this morning, at West Chicago, on the Galena division.

The dead are: John Goodling, Appleton, Wis.; Mrs. R. Shipman, Appleton, Wis.; Unidentified man, riding between engine and baggage car, supposed to be a tramp.

The victims of the collision were Christian Endeavor delegates who left Chicago last night, on their way to the great convention in San Francisco.

The colliding trains were sections Nos. 4 and 5 of a Christian Endeavor train sent out in nine sections, beginning at 10:30 p. m.

Section No. 4 carried the Wisconsin delegates, nearly 500 strong, and in the rear sleeper were people from Fond du Lac, Green Bay, Appleton and other Wisconsin cities.

Section No. 4 had come to a stop just out of West Chicago, where the Freeport line diverges from the main line. Section No. 5 came up behind at great speed, and the shock of the collision was terrific.

The passengers in the two rear sleepers of section No. 4 were all in their berths. They received no warning, and those not killed outright awoke to find themselves jammed in the wreckage.

As soon as the wreck was reported to the local officers of the Chicago and Northwestern, Superintendent Stewart, of the Galena division, ordered a special train and went to the scene. Other officials dispatched messengers for the company's doctors, and Assistant General Superintendent W. A. Gardner and a corps of surgeons left immediately for West Chicago.

Assistant General Superintendent W. A. Gardner said this morning that he could give no tangible explanation yet as to the cause of the accident.

Indianapolis, June 30.—Train No. 11, on the Vandalia railroad, which left this city at 7 o'clock last evening, containing a large number of Christian Endeavorers, collided with train No. 6, bound east from St Louis, at 8:20 o'clock near Vandalia.

The killed:

R. T. Sherman, mail clerk on No. 6, Indianapolis.

W. P. Coon, baggagemaster, No. 326 East Louisiana street, Indianapolis, on No. 11.

Fatally injured:

Samuel Parkinson, mail clerk, of Columbus, O., crushed in the wreck; Frank Owens, fireman, of Terre Haute, mangled under the engine.

It seems from the best information obtainable that the west bound train pulled out of Vandalia without waiting for the train from St. Louis. The headlight of the west bound engine was extinguished for some time before the crash came. None of the passengers were injured.

Smith, of Jefferson.

The newspapers of this State will never forget the important services rendered by William Orlando Smith, Representative from Jefferson county in the House of Representatives, in securing the passage of the new Libel law, which puts newspaper men on a par with the other citizens of the State. Mr. Smith has served four terms in the House with great credit, is a practical printer, editor of the Punxsutawney Spirit, one of the leading newspapers of that section of the State, and a man who is respected everywhere for his abilities and personal worth.

Mr. Smith is one of those quiet men who achieved leadership, not by his own efforts, but because he is looked up to by his associates. In the recent Legislature he was author of the Libel bill, its chief exponent and defender, and though his own measure was slightly amended, he secured practically all that the newspaper men of this State want, and he is deserving of their lasting gratitude. The State Editorial Association made no mistake in selecting him to champion this measure. It could not have passed finally without his quiet but earnest and effective support.

Durran's Appeal Filed.

Washington, July 1.—The papers in the appeal of W. H. T. Durrant, under sentence of death in San Francisco for the murder of Blanche Lamont, were received by the clerk of the Supreme Court of the United States to day. The appeal is from the decision of the Circuit Court of the United States for the ninth circuit in refusing to grant Durrant's motion for a writ of habeas corpus. In his petion Durrant alleges irregularity, and illegality of the proceedings against him in the California State courts. He also complains of the refusal of the court to punish for contempt the publishers of San Francisco newspapers in publishing accounts detrimental to his (Durrant's) interests in having a fair trial.

As the Supreme Court will not sit again until October 12 the appeal cannot be argued before that time

A MIS-MATCHED.

A Tale of Woe or "Is Marriage a Failure."

We suppose there have been fortunate and unfortunate marriage ever since the first marriage in Eden when the apple was used in the ceremony in place of the modern ring. The dresses of the bride and groom on that occasion were not elaborate, nor were they cut bias, but were in paris naturalibus. It was after the first marriage that dresses came into vogue which have been increasing in expensiveness ever since. The marriage of Mr. Adam and Miss Eve cannot be classed as a fortunate one for them as then their troubles only commenced and continued until happy death gave them relief as it was with the first married pair so it has been with others until the question, "Is marriage a failure," has become an interesting one to many.

St Paul is reported to have said "it was better to marry than to burn," and so e other ancient philosophers said "it was not good for man to be alone." However correct or mistaken those authors quoted might have been, we have not been able to decide and will give a brief history of our married life as an example, "how the old thing works."

It came about in this way. While hunting in the Alleghenys terrific storm swept the mountains in which the writer became lost, and after wandering around all night, in the morning found a house with a small clearing surrounding it. On applying for admittance a young angelic creature, aged about 30 years, admitted us to her hospitality, and done all she could to revive our drooping spirit. We thought we had met an angel direct from the golden streets of New Jerusalem with guile.

This angelic creature gave us her name as Rosie Wildwood, and there was no more hunting for the festive bear and the purring wild cat for us that season, and we began to think St. Paul, and the other ancient, were great philosophers. In fact, we were in that state of semi-lunacy that some people designate as love, and we was in it bad.

In due course of time the day was fixed for the marriage of Rosie and myself. There was to be but few present to witness the happy nuptuals. When the happy or unhappy day just as you may decide arrived we took with us good looking Charles Kurtz for best man and that was a big mistake as you will find out further on. Miss Rosie had her first cousin for maid of honor, and a red headed male cousin with a Winchester, to see there was no "reniging" in the matter. A Justice of the Peace, from Snow Shoe, performed the ceremony, after which the five persons present set down to a game supper while the red headed cousin, with the Winchester regaled himself with his pipe in the kitchen

The supper being over, and after kissing the bride, the Justice of the Peace started for his home. From that time on until bed time there was considerable hilarity, for Mr. Kurtz is not only good looking but a jolly fellow. We notice our new made wife took to Kurtz like a cold kitten to a warm brick, but we were not the least bit jealous.

After seeing Kurtz, it is not Mr. now and the brides maid put to their separate rooms, wife and self retired to her bed room. Rosie didn't appear to care about going to bed, and after the clock struck eleven we suggested "it was about time to tumbled in." She objected, saying she "had never disrobed when a man was in her room and never would." We retired to the dining room while she prepared herself for her downy and virtuous couch. We did that in order to keep peace in the newly made family. In the dining room we found the red headed cousin, with the Winchester, who wanted to know "what was up," at the same time keeping one eye on me and the other eye on his Winchester. After explaining the situation red head remarked, "if cousin Rosie got her dander up she would be worse than any catamount in the mountain, and that I had better be careful which way I stroke the hairs." Upon returning to my new wife's bed room, Rosie was asleep or pretended to be with her favorite cat beside her on the pillow. We caught the cat and throwed the anima out of the window. The noise awaken Rosie just in time to see her favorite pussy taking a flying leap earthward. She wanted to know why we did that act! and she did not look like an angel when she put the question to us. We told her that was away we had of "tameing a shrew." After a few sweet compliments upon the catastrophy we turned into bed and Rosie in true connubial felicity turned herback to us and never uttered another word until morning "when she asked me if I was sorry I had married her. I told her not particularly so." She said she was, and had she seen Mr. Kurtz sooner she would never have married me, as Kurtz was younger and better looking than myself, and she knew he never would have thrown her cat out of the window. We complimented Rosie for her frankness. At the breakfast table, I observed my new angelic wife's eyes following every movement that Kurtz made and her face was wreathed in smiles while graciously entertaining him in conversation, yet I was not the least bit jealous.

When Rosie,s female cousin and Kurtz took their departure my angelic and beloved wife kissed her cousin good bye her face brightened up with a seraphic smile and plumped a warm kiss on Kurtz's mouth, which did not offend him for he immediately returned the same, and yet I was not the least bit jealous.

After our guests departed we got down to house keeping and matters run along as I suppose as is usual with new family's made so by a Justice of the Peace, with occasional tantrums until one day while at dinner we both got hot under the colar which caused a family circus not down on the bill of fare, which finally ended in tears and reconciliation on wife's parts. A few weeks after the circus Rosie asked me "if the Justice of the Peace could unmarry us." I told her that I thought not. Then she shed tears and said "she loved Mr. Kurtz dearly and could not live without him," even that failed to make me the least bit jealous, We lived along in dog and cat style for a good while until one day, when Rosie was in one of her antrums, we told her to invite Kurtz to visit us for a week. This so delighted my beloved wife that she sung psalms and spiritual hyms the balance of the day and long into the night.

A few days after Kurtz arrived at our peaceful home, trigged out in the latest style, his face wreathed in the sweetest of sweet smiles, and wife gave him a warm welcome not forgetting the usual osculation exercise on such occasions and sweet peace again reigned in our happy home shouldering our gun we bid them "good day" telling them we would shoot a deer or their entertainment and started for the forest and continued to travel until we arrived at this place where we have remained ever since, "without a wave of trouble rolling a cross our peaceful breast," or words to that effect, for we were not the least bit jealous. Whatever became of Rosie and Kurtz we don't know as we never made any inquiry of them. We can't say our marriage was a failure, for by it we acquired much knowledge that we could not have gained in any other way. Rosie and myself may again meet in the "happy hunting ground," but I would prefer it otherwise, as we are not the least bit jealous, and the question "is marriage a failure." Still remains undecided with your humble servant, Joseph Boon's Mountain, Forrest county, Pa.

Rising of a River Causes Death.

VIENNA, June 28.—The town of Kolomea, in Galacia, has been flooded by the rising of the river Pruth. Many houses have been destroyed and the bridge between Kolomea and Turko has been swept away. The collapse took place while a train was crossing and it is believed that many persons have been drowned. The government has ordered the soldiery to assist the inhabitants in the effort to save their property.

There were five railway carriages and they fell in a great heap together. As yet there is no definite report as to the number of passengers. A terrible storm of hail, thunder and lightning was raging at the time and added to the horror of the scene. The river had risen 21 feet above its normal level.

Seven officials, including the postal staff at Mailvan, have been drowned.

The distress at Kolomea is terrible. Hundreds are homeless, their houses having been carried away with the rush of the waters.

—In the July Harper's Du Maurier's last novel, "The Martian," comes to a somewhat abrupt close. The illustrations, notably the one of Marty on her sick bed, which is the frontispiece of the number, are in an unfinished state; and the last words of the story are "Barty Josselin is no more." Nothing could be more suggestive of Du Maurier's own end than the ending of the life of his hero, who was, in the main, Du Maurier's portrait of himself.

The second instalment of Stockton's new novel, "The Great Stone of Sardis," illustrated by Peter Newell, brings the reader well on his way to the north pole on a submarine journey of exploration.

"The Kentuckians," a novelette by John Fox, Jr., illustrated by W. T. Smedley, deals dramatically with the broadly contrasted types of the mountains and the blue-grass region.

Big Damages for Broken Leg.

CHARLOTTE, N. C. June 30.—The United States Court at Ashville in the case of J. Edward Hunt vs. Charles McName awarded the plaintiff $8,500 damages.

McName is George W. Vanderbilt's agent. Hunt's leg was broken by a stone which was blasted from an excavation of the building of the Young Men's Institute, a school for colored youth which Vanderbilt was erecting in Ashville. The stone flew over a three-story building before it landed on Hunt's leg. The defendant appeals to the Court of Appeals.

MORE IDLE MEN.

ALL UNION MILLS CLOSE DOWN

This Was Done Because the Amalgamated Wage Conference at Youngstown Came to No Conclusion Wednesday.

STOPPING THE ERA OF PROSPERITY

PITTSBURG, July 1.—As the result of the failure of the joint wage conference of Amalgamated Association Iron and Steel Workers and Manufactures to agree upon the scale at Youngstown yesterday, all the Union mills are closed down to-day and between seventy-five and eighty-five thousand men are idle. This includes the skilled workmen and those depending on them.

President Garland returned from Youngstown last night. When seen to-day he said he was not discouraged at the outlook, but looked for a settlement after the annual repairs at mills have been completed.

This morning the employes of Jones & Laughlin's met and discussed the proposed 28 per cent. reduction in wages which, it is said, is comtemplated. It is said that this meeting reported unfavorably upon the proposition.

Three more signatures to the Amalgamated scale were received here to-day. They were Muncie Iron and Steel company, Peninsula Car company, and Jones & McLaughlin, for the structural department mills, Nos. 11 and 12.

Anderson Depuy & Co., operating a non-union mill at McKee's Rocks near here, ordered a cut in wages to-day of from 10 to 20 per cent. The plant employs 500 men.

CLEVELAND, July 1.—The Cleveland Rolling Mill company and the Britton iron and steel works shut down to-day, failing to sign the Amalgamated scale. About 5,000 men are affected.

STREATOR, Ill., July 1.—A mass meeting of miners here to-day voted unanimously to go on strike and not wait for a general suspension order. As a consequence no coal is being mined here and 2,000 miners are idle.

BRAIEWOOD, Ill., July 1.—The miners of the entire Wilmington field met at Glackens grove to-day and decided by an unanimous vote to go on strike when the national officers should order a suspension of work.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., July 1.—The Express will say to-morrow :

Next Sunday, or prior to that day, circulars will be placed in the hands of all the bituminous miners in the United States calling them out on strike. It is estimated that 250,000 men will be involved. Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and parts of West Virginia and Kentucky will contribute to the movement. The strike is to enforce the Columbus scale of 69 cents per ton for Pennsylvania, 60 cents for Ohio, 60 cents for Indiana and 55 cents for Illinois. When the Columbus scale was adopted it was not thought advisable to attempt its enforcement. A committee was then appointed to take in hand the matter of a strike and to order one as soon as such a course seemed opportune. This committee has decided that the time has come to act.

The Magnet has Suspened

The Centre Magnet, the organ of the Prohibition party in this county, has suspended publication. Mr. N. S. Bailey has conducted this paper for the past five years and has been doing a noble work along temperance lines, but as a newspaper enterprise it has been a financial failure. It is a matter of great regret to the many friends of the enterprise. Mr. Bailey is trying to dispose of the type and machinery at private sale.

The Legislature.

The Legislature has adjourned after the longest continuous session in our history, and after counting up both sides of the ledger we are free to say that it has been a good Legislature, that it has done its duty well, and that it will receive the commendation of the people of this Commonwealth.

It is easy to condemn any Legislature, but those who are familiar with the Legislatures of this State for a generation are free to say that it has done more things that it ought to have done and has left undone fewer things that it ought to have done than any similar body in recent times.

The burning of the Capitol made the session much longer than would otherwise have been the case. The temporary quarters were far from satisfactory, yet, when all is considered, we must say that the members did well. They raised revenue enough to carry out all the desirable projects that were proposed. The schools get their usual $11,000,000, and the charities are well provided for. The general legislation was of less importance than usual, but most of what was passed will receive public approval.

The Governor sent in several vetoes, and when all is considered it must be said that he acted wisely. The Legislature is now a thing of the past. It was a body of unusually able men, men of unusual independence. There was less bossism than was ever known before, and there was more of individual merit. There was a lack of leadership, which told in a body where most of the men were new to legislative experience; but on the whole, as we have said, it was one of the most honorable and most satisfactory sessions of the Legislature ever held. There are some points of criticism, but we do not dwell on these at this time. We are satisfied that the people will be content with what has been done.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Centre Co. Dogs That Has Larnin.'

George D. Mechling, of Centre county, indulged himself in a peculiar idea in dog training yesterday, says the Pittsburg Times. He owns two beautiful pointer pups. They are perfectly trained. Before he left for home last night he exhibited the dogs at the Union depot. He had bought a few pieces of meat for them. There was a crowd gathered about the owner and dogs when the show began. First Mechling placed the meat on the floor and released both dogs from their leash. Neither moved toward the meat, but trembled with anxiety to get at it. Then he gave a word of command and they moved to the meat. "Steady," and both pointed beautifully, with their noses within six inches of the tempting meat. "Down," and they lay down Then he made them rise, run to the end of the platform and return; jump on a truck and sit up and beg; bring the meat to him in their mouths, and then carry it back again to the spot on which they got it. After they had done all this he bade them eat, and they swallowed the food. He said they were five months old, and not show dogs, just ordinary, well-bred, setter pups. He also stated that he brought them to the city with him just to see how they would behave in the noisy crowds. He was satisfied.

Where Were the Police?

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., July 1.—Burglars entered the postoffice here this morning about 2.30 o'clock, blew open the safe and succeeded in getting away with the contents, amounting to about $335 in cash and $574 in stamps. Fifteen registered letters were also taken. Both the inner and the outer doors of the safe were blown off and the books and papers scattered over the floor. Although the noise of the explosion awakened a family living above the postoffice, the burglars eluded detection, Three strange men leaving town on a freight train over the Baltimore and Ohio early this morning are the only suspects.

A Problem for Weyler.

HAVANA, June 30.—La Lucha publishes an interview which its correspondent at Santiago de Cuba has had with Capt. Gen. Weyler regarding the latter's plans for the pacification of that province.

The General is quoted as saying: "I came east personally in order to see the condition of affairs existing here and to carry out my plans. Important movements are impossible now, owing to the rainy season, but I have come to study the problem, as on a chess table, so as to be the better able to make the necessary move when the proper time arrives. I am quite satisfied with the military commander of the province, Gen. Linares. I cannot say when the operators will commence."

A special dispatch to La Lucha from Santiago de Cuba says that Gen. Weyler's chief of hospital staff has ordered the immediate construction of additional barracks, with beds for the sick. It is added that the local merchants will voluntarily pay the expense incurred in the erection of these buildings. The hospital facilities of Guantanamo are also to be increased, and new hospitals are to be established at Cobro, Longo, Palma, and Tiguabo, all in Santiago de Cuba Province.

Only uninteresting skirmishes have been reported recently from headquarters as having occurred between the Spanish troops and the insurgents.

Gen. Rius Rivera has been removed from Cabanas fortress to the military hospital of San Ambrosio, in this city. He is comfortably quartered in the room of an officer. To-day the government returned to Spain 750 soldiers who were on the invalid list.

Ohio Has a Volcano.

BAINBRIDGE, O., July 1.—Some subterranean disturbance, not unlike an incipient volcano, frightened a neighborhood a few miles from here, near the junction of Ross, Pike and Highland counties. It was attended by an underground rumbling and the appearance of deep fissures in the ground, from which smoke or vapor issued. Daring people have attempted to fathom some of these fissures, but could find no bottom. They are not accompanied by heat, and the alarmed neighborhood is at a loss to account for it. The disturbance seems entirely local.

SILK FROM THE SPURCE TREE.

Great Care Used in the Process of Making the Silk-Like Fibres.

Silk of excellent quality is being made from the spruce tree in Europe, and a movement is on foot to establish the industry in this country. It is said that the cost of making silk by this process is one-fifth that of the spinning from the silk worm cocoon. The fibre takes dye as readily as the animal product, and can be woven as securely and as rapidly. It is also claimed that the tensile strength of the fabric is as silk. In trying to hit upon the particgreat as, if not greater than, the real ular chemical process that the original fibre went through before it was spun as silk by the loom, he found that after the fibre had been separated it needed the chemical action of a certain form of glucose. In the new treatment the tree is crushed, and the resulting fibre is mixed with glucose and then placed in deep metal tubs. A disk, somewhat like a steam piston, is then forced down on the mass by hydraulic pressure until it is compressed into a very heavy gum. At the bottom of the tubs are tubes terminating in tiny glass nipples, with exceedingly small apertures. Under the hydraulic pressure the mixture is forced out of these glass nipples in silk-like fibres, which are so fine that the girls who are employed in this portion of the process are obliged to wear highly magnifying glasses in order to distinguish when any of the fibres break. The material is then carried over electrically-heated drums, which dry the ether and the alcohol out of it. It is then plunged into iced water, dried, and spooled for the looms.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Auctions in Japan.

There is little chance for fraud or complaint in the matter of conducting auction sales in Japan. Although there are not nearly so many sales held there as in this country, officials of the cities have a way of conducting them much similar to our method of voting.

When an auction is to take place, the goods or property is advertised for two weeks ahead. On the day of the sale each bidder writes his name and address and the amount of his bid for each lot on a slip of paper, which he carefully places in a box. When all the bids are in the auctioneer opens the box in the presence of the spectators, and, after examining, all the goods are declared the property of the highest bidder. By this system the American custom of owners bidding in property on goods would almost entirely disappear.

Fox Terrier a Transparency.

The fox terrier is now officially registered as a transparency, the X ray shining through him like a candle through a Chinese lantern. The experiment has been tried on an animal of this species which had swallowed a diamond ring, the trinket appearing in its midst, visible as a goldfish in a glass vase or a fly in amber. The utilities of this penetrating beam may expand till it will show up other than the paltry pilferings of a terrier, perhaps even the sway of the political boss, notwithstanding the opacity of its bulk and origin.—New York Tribune.

A Former Bellefonte Woman Dead.

Mrs. Mary A. Houp, a former resident of Bellefonte, died at her home in Tyrone, Friday morning at 8:00 o'clock. She was the wife of Joseph Houp. Her age was 67 years, 2 months and 14 days.

The aged lady had been afflicted with cancer of the stomach for about three months and she was indeed a great sufferer from this dire ailment. For sixty-two days she had taken no solid food, her only nourishment being meagre quantities of brandy and water. For the past twenty-seven days she had taken no food in any form, nothing but water having passed her lips in that time.

The deceased was born in Hopewell, Bedford county. It was in Bedford county that she was united in marriage to Joseph Houp forty-five years ago. Since their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Houp had resided at various places, more recently at Millerstown, Altoona, Bellefonte and Retort, coming from the latter place to this town eight years ago; since that time they had been numbered among Tyrone's residents. Mrs. Houp was a consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal church and died with the comfort of a saving faith.
